Two-Hour Sailings 'Rotten'

Ferry Foulup Delays Thousands

By KEN WARREN

Up to thousands of people were stranded for six or more hours at Swartz Bay terminal Thursday and the B.C. Ferry System came under heavy fire for not commencing hourly service for the start of the Remembrance Day holiday.

"Where the hell's that world's greatest ferry system now?" asked Roger Poirier, of Toronto, who had been at Swartz Bay since 5 p.m. and was awaiting the 11 p.m. sailing.

"Rotten service," said Dr. T. W. Head, of Victoria. "I'm doggone disgusted with everyone."

Dr. Head was another of many people who arrived at 5 p.m. and would sail at 11 p.m. Two extra late sailings disposed of the last of the simmering motorists.

HOURLY PLAN

Most of the anger was aimed at the ferry system failing to utilize its vessels for hourly sailings.

Almost all persons interviewed told of a Victoria man who carried a petition with about 1,000 signatures on it protesting use of two-hour service the night before a holiday.

HE SAILED

But they said the unidentified man had caught the 9 p.m. sailing.

Many women had one or more small children in cars with them, the car motors running steadily during the four to six-hour wait in the cold night.

OUTSIDE GATE

At the height of the wait more than a ferry load of vehicles sat inside the terminal gates and another ferry load outside, said terminal agent D. J. Keen.

"I don't know what else was over the hill. I haven't been out there all night," he said.

BAD COMBINATION

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the huge backlog of cars was due to a combination of good weather and Remembrance Day falling on a Friday, making an additional long weekend this year.

He said hourly weekend service will start at 7 a.m. today.

"An extra long weekend is extremely difficult to provide for," he said.

NANAIMO, TOO

In Nanaimo hundreds of travellers were similarly stranded for hours.

"I guess we just goofed," one ferry official there commented.

"It stinks," was the comment Richard Jackson, of Victoria, suggested for the guest book aboard the ferries which asks for passengers to comment on the service.

NOT PRINTABLE

"Lousy," Henry Stimpson, Victoria.

"Mismanagement," Clarence Hronek, Victoria.

"It's not printable," Delmar McLean, Victoria.

"Disgraceful," Ray Furber, Langford.

'SHOULD BE SHOT'

"Bennett should be shot, having a tieup like this," said Bill Boone of Victoria.

By 10:15 p.m. none of the 150 cars that had been waiting outside the terminal gates was still there. They had been scheduled for a special 1 p.m. sailing.

Salary Crisis Over

GRITS FIND WAY TO PAY

By RON COLLISTER, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Like a magician from Bay Street, Prime Minister Pearson last night dipped into the treasury and produced millions galore to pay the mid-month cheque of Canada's civil servants.

The Tories called it "trickery" and accused the government of dishonesty in allowing a crisis to develop and delaying civil servants' cheques, knowing all the time that there was money available.

Tory Terry Nugent said the government had panicked the country as a political ploy.

"They did it," he said bitterly, "just to see if they could get us to back down for a political victory."

But the move by the prime minister, whatever the trickery involved, looked like the first really smart move the government had taken.

It removed the main leverage of the Tory campaign to keep the interim supply debate rolling: that civil servants would not be paid if the government did not cave in on the armed forces unification bill.

Setback at Meeting

The meeting was to have been dominated by a national crisis. Instead, it will be dominated by a major parliamentary setback.

But Mr. Pearson, unable to conceal his delight over his financial coup, invited the Tories to go to their national meeting "happy and smiling, as good Conservatives should be."

Mr. Pearson squeezed the Tories into a box by announcing that the guaranteed income for pensioners will be on the order paper of parliament next week.

Higher pensions is one of the great slogans of the Tories, and they are unlikely to invite criticism for delaying higher pensions.

But there is a setback for Defence Minister Hellyer, too.

Second Tongue Worth Cash

OTTAWA (CP) — As civil servants grumbled about delays in getting paid, the federal government came up with announcements to improve the lot of some federal employees Thursday.

Prime Minister Pearson, addressing a luncheon of the 115,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada, said he hopes proposed collective bargaining legislation — to deal initially with pay matters — will eventually be expanded to "attack problems relating to morale and productivity and the public image of the public service."

In another development, the government announced that a pay differential of seven per cent of normal pay rates will be awarded government secretaries, stenographers and typists who use both official languages in their work.

Retroactive to Oct. 1, 1966, the differential could affect about 16,000 employees, but only those who show bilingual proficiency in a series of tests will benefit.

Postal employees were heartened by the arrival here Thursday of Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Quebec Superior Court, named Wednesday night to mediate the Group D pay dispute.

For Murder

Radio Man To Hang

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani, 41, former radio station promotion man, was found guilty Thursday night of capital murder in the arsenic poisoning of his wife. He was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 21.

Castellani showed no signs of emotion when the verdict was announced by the British Columbia Supreme Court jury.

Mrs. Esther Castellani died in a hospital here July 11, 1965, months after complaining of headaches, dizzy spells and general weakness.

* * *

Several weeks after her death, Mrs. Castellani's body was exhumed on orders of the city coroner. The charge against Castellani was laid some time later.

The Crown contended Mrs. Castellani died of arsenic poisoning systematically administered by Castellani over a period of at least five months.

* * *

In his summation, defence lawyer A. A. Mackoff said the Crown had only proved that Castellani was having an affair with Mrs. Adelaide (Lollie) Miller, 27. But he said the crown did not prove that Castellani was a diabolically clever poisoner.

* * *

Prosecutor T. G. Bowen-Colthurst said the Crown's first contention is that Mrs. Castellani died of arsenic poisoning. He said the prosecution's case is that Castellani administered arsenic to his wife at home, then later administered arsenic to her in food brought to Mrs. Castellani in the hospital.

Resolutions Committee Backs Tory Leadership

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — John Diefenbaker scored a stunning first-round victory in his leadership battle as the resolutions committee of the party endorsed his leadership Thursday.

* * *

Committee chairman E. A. Goodman of Toronto said there was "overwhelming support" among the 21 members for the "wording and content" of a draft vote of confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker.

Asked if the committee was voting confidence, he replied: "You can't have it any other way."

Mr. Goodman said there was a "narrow majority" favoring decison by a standing vote, rejecting a secret ballot.

But the draft resolution, published Thursday, allows a secret ballot on a leadership convention if Mr. Diefenbaker is defeated in the confidence vote.

The second resolution on leadership states:

"In the event that the vote expressing confidence is not sustained, that the question of whether or not a leadership convention should be called should be placed on the agenda of the annual meeting and that a vote on such question be taken by ballot."

* * *

Mr. Goodman explained that beside the two leadership resolutions of his committee, any delegate can make any motion or amendment from the floor of the national meeting.

He admitted that a third of the 60 resolutions received from members and constituency associations dealt with leadership.

* * *

The leadership battle is scheduled to be fought on Wednesday, the third day of the national meeting.

However, the agenda will not be firm until the national executive has fought it out at a meeting Sunday, on the eve of the rally.

* * *

Mr. Goodman announced that special precautions will be taken to ensure a fair and accurate count on the resolutions.

The committee, he said, is committed to "all necessary steps to ensure that only accredited delegates are allowed in the room because of the problems of space and proper procedures are taken to see that everyone can vote."

About 1,300 delegates are invited. He expected more than 1,200 of them to come to Ottawa and vote.

The Goodman committee's

Bennett's Bid for Appeal Denied by Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia Thursday was denied leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against an order for retrial of a slander suit against him.

* * *

The court's decision leaves the way clear for George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. purchasing commission, to take his case against the premier back to the B.C. Supreme Court Jan. 9.

But the B.C. Appeal Court ordered a retrial, and this will now go ahead following refusal of the Supreme Court of Canada to grant Mr. Bennett permission to argue against the order.

Jones was charged by the B.C. attorney-general Oct. 2, 1964 on two counts of unlawfully accepting a benefit as chairman of the purchasing commission.

When the counts were thrown out in county court, the Bennett government introduced a bill in the B.C. legislature compelling the retirement of Jones from his job.

* * *

Slander was alleged by Jones in remarks the premier made March 5, 1965, at a time when the bill was before the legislature and the attorney-general still had an appeal on the criminal charges pending in the courts.

Mr. Bennett's request for leave to appeal was heard Monday by Mr. Justice Ronald Martland, Mr. Justice Roland Ritchie and Mr. Justice Emmett Hall.

Rear View Spanked

LONDON (AP) — There's a new Safety Council poster that shows June Palmer's almost-bare bottom, and the question is: Does it make viewers safety-conscious?

The Safety Council is mailing the poster to 20,000 factories to be posted on bulletin boards. June, a model, is shown with high heels in the air, her frothy, short evening dress up above her thighs, and a large expanse of flesh.

The wording:

"Safe shoes prevent purlers."

Purler is cockney slang for falling on your backside.

"I'm certainly not narrow-minded, but this sort of poster has no useful purpose and isn't necessary. It makes people look at it — but not with safety in mind."

Told of Mann's reaction, a Safety Council spokesman said: "We believe the poster has impact. We don't think it's at all sexy."

The message, he said, was to bring home the point that if girls and women wear high-heeled shoes they may take a fall.

June commented:

"If I had thought there was anything wrong in posing for the poster I wouldn't have done it."

'Whole Business' Coming Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor leader Pat O'Neal, a central figure in the bugging of a rival union's convention rooms at a downtown hotel, says he welcomes a royal commission inquiry into the matter.

Mr. O'Neal, western regional organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said Thursday he is prepared to co-operate fully with the commissioner, R. A. Sargent, a former county court judge.

* * *

But Mr. O'Neal, denied allegations that he knew private detectives he hired to investigate the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada were planning to use electronic eavesdropping devices.

He said he hopes the commission will make the public aware of the issues involved in the inter-union rivalry.

"I think this is going to bring the whole business before the public—not only the bugging, but all of the aspects of the dispute."

* * *

Mr. O'Neal was reached in a suburban hotel as he waited for a flight east, where he will meet with the Canadian director of the union, Henry Lorrain.

In Victoria Thursday, a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said the inquiry should be under way next week.

Electronic equipment was found Monday in three rooms at the Ritz Hotel, where the rival union was holding a closed convention.

* * *

A private detective, W. B. Graham, said Mr. O'Neal had paid him $250 to rent the bugging equipment, and that he had been introduced to Mr. O'Neal by members of the RCMP security and intelligence branch.

Mr. O'Neal said he hired Mr. Graham to get evidence of efforts by the Canadian union to intimidate members of the international union.

Grits End Salary Crisis

through parliament by Christmas.

The prime minister placed it, in order of priority, after amendments to the National Housing Act, medicare and pensions.

And, within a few weeks, the government will have to seek interim supply for December.

The crisis has created unparalleled reservoirs of bitterness in parliament.

Tories do not believe Mr. Pearson's statement that he did not know, until 3 p.m. yesterday, that the money was available.

He knew it two days ago, and told it to the caucus on Wednesday, several Tories claimed.

Last night, Mr. Pearson denied there was anything sneaky in what the government had done.

Four days ago, he asked for a search of the treasury department for unusual measures to pay bills.

COMPUTER COUNTS

Revenue Minister Edgar Benson said the computer had revealed that the money was available. The computer, it seems, now circumvents the parliamentary process.

He declined to put a total on how much money was found, but it is understood to be between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Mr. Benson flatly denied that the government had held up revealing that the money had been found to pay the bills.

He accused Mr. Diefenbaker of building up a crisis so that he could go to next week's Tory rally and say: "The government is coming to an end. Support me."

The opposition's "bubble has burst," he said.

The leadership rally he charged was the whole background to what the Tories had been trying to do in Parliament.

The government, he said, was now telling the opposition that "We don't care what you do. Go on with your debate for seven or eight days, and don't take the chance to look at all the other important matters that need to be examined."

SEVEN DAYS

If he Tories continue the debate, they have seven days to go.

Under temporary rules, debate on spending is limited to 30 days each session, and they have used up 23.

The Tories now have to decide if they will use up the seven days on their present debate, or reserve it to debate other matters that may arise.

INTO NEW YEAR

The session is likely to continue into the New Year, and they may need the time.

It is a temporary rule that limits spending debate to 30 days and some Tories were predicting last night that it will be abolished and the Commons will return next session to the old arrangement, allowing limitless debate on spending.

"The old way is our only protection," said Tory Terry Nugent.

WILL GO ON

Tory house leader Michael Starr said the debate will go on. He denied it had anything to do with the Tory leadership meeting.

New Democrat David Lewis said it was "absolutely disgraceful that the prime minister should have kept secret that the pay-checque money was available.

Tory Marcel Lambers said the prime minister had "hoaxed" the civil service.

THE SCENE

Prime Minister Pearson, who had been discussing strategy with his lieutenants after all-party meetings collapsed, entered the Commons at 9 p.m.

Tory Robert McCleave had been criticizing him for not being present in the Commons. He welcomed Mr. Pearson to the Commons.

Mr. Pearson threw his support behind the defence bill. "We firmly believe that the policy is the right policy," he said.

EXISTANCE STAKED

"We are staking our existence as a government on it. The bill will be debated on second reading, and of the majority disapproves of the policy, they will defeat the government."

The refusal to grant supply to a government could be the end of a government, Mr. Pearson said.

"That," he said, glaring at the opposition, "is the responsibility of those who take that course, to prevent a government paying its bills."

FROM WHERE?

How did the government find the money?

That is sure to be the core of the next uproar in the Commons. Revenue Minister Benson was vague about how much money was juggled around.

Heart Block Can Be Helped

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain a heart block. Can anything be done to prevent blackouts from it? — Mrs. R.T.

A heart block is some interference with the impulses causing the heart to beat. The result is that the heart slows down. If, in consequence, blood circulation is sufficiently impaired, a blackout can result.

* * *

Such a blackout is caused by insufficient circulation to the brain, and there are causes, other than heart defects, which can be responsible. An ordinary fainting spell, sometines from an emotional upset, is an example. If a person faints, when he lies down circulation to the head is quickly restored and the blackout ends. Or a blackout can result when a person is sitting or lying down and then stands up suddenly.

When, as in your case, it is a result of heart block, certain medications are effective in treatment. They are prescription drugs, however, so you must see your doctor.

In more stubborn cases, in which the heart remains at a very slow rate, the use of a pacemaker is the answer in an increasing number of patients. There has been steady improvement in the design of these battery-operated pacemakers, and I have no doubt that they will be still further improved.

Another type of heart block is known as "bundle branch block," and is identified by electrocardiogram. It does not cause blackouts and requires no treatment.

* * *

The foregoing discussion of heart block has been considerably simplified for the sake of brevity. The main idea is that heart block can be treated successfully, but it is not a problem to be left to home remedies. You need careful examination by your doctor, and often by a heart specialist, to determine the type and degree of the trouble. "Cure" is too strong a word, but one method or another of helping the heart to resume a normal rate of beating is very much possible

The whole leadership question, and the strength of party president Dalton Camp and his rebels, could be decided on the formal vote of confidence.

Presumably, a rebel will move that the confidence vote be taken by secret ballot.

But such a vote has to be approved by a standing vote, a device that traditionally favors Mr. Diefenbaker and harms his opponents.

Thursday, Mr. Goodman put it this way:

"No matter how you slice it, eventually the first question on leadership has still to be taken by a standing vote.

"Someone could move that the vote be taken by ballot, but this would have to be taken by a standing vote.

"This is an exercise in futility in some ways because the first vote will be by standing vote.

"There is no provision in our constitution for the chairman forcing a ballot on the delegates."

GIVE DIRECTIONS

The aim of the resolutions committee, Mr. Goodman said, was to give some directions — and the delegates could "take it or leave it."

There was no subject causing strong feeling that wasn't incorporated in a resolution to go before the meeting.

In the area of leadership, the committee received the following types of resolution from the constituencies:

- Confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker.
- Calls for a leadership convention.
- Periodic reassessments of leadership.

All questions referring to a periodic reassessment were sent to the constitution committee, because they implied an amendment to the constitution.

'NOT OUR FUNCTION'

The resolutions committee, Mr. Goodman said, dealt only with the question of confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker and whether a leadership convention should be held.

"We didn't believe it was part of our function to get involved in amendments to the constitution."

Mr. Goodman said his committee would meet again to set a time limit on discussion.

Tory Resolution Seeks Delay Of Unification

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Conservative annual meeting next week will be asked to approve a resolution halting the unification of the Canadian armed forces until the policy is completely reviewed by the Commons defence committee.

The resolution is one of scores which could raise a storm at the three-day meeting. Its timing is crucial.

Early adoption would mean the party at large supports the party caucus which has forced a crisis of major proportions in the Commons by insisting Defence Minister Hellyer's bill be sent to the committee before second reading.

VOTE IF NECESSARY

It was learned Thursday night that a substantial proportion of the caucus favors pushing the issue as far as a general election if necessary.

Toronto lawyer E. A. Goodman Thursday released the resolutions approved by the party resolutions committee for submission to the general meeting.

The defence resolution demands that until a full review of unification is completed the further development of the unified training command be halted and "the navy, the army and the air force be retained as distinct services with distinct identities."

'ALL RANKS'

It states the defence committee should be instructed to receive submissions from all interested parties and to call "active and retired members of the defence staff and members of the defence forces of all ranks."

The booklet of resolutions released by Mr. Goodman read like an election manifesto; it contained proposed Conservative policy on everything from economic nationalism to development of the northern regions of the country.

There are 18 resolutions on finance economy and trade, most of which are designed to increase Canadian productivity, investment by Canadians in their own resources, and public confidence in the economic institutions.

AMONG OTHERS

Among others, these resolutions include:

- An increase of income tax allowance on dividends from Canadian corporations from 20 to 30 per cent.
- A Canadian Small Business Investment Act to encourage the number and growth of small investment companies;
- Establishment of a federal securities commission and that trust companies and near banks be under the provisions of the Bank Act;
- Fuller financial disclosure by public corporations to protect investors and encourage more investment by Canadians.

On external affairs, there are resolutions calling for the recognition of Red China, approval of the principal of Red China's admission to the United Nations, support for the American policy in Viet Nam, and recognition that force might be necessary in Rhodesia.

On individual liberties, resolutions call for a standing parliamentary committee on civil liberties, the appointment of an Ombudsman and constitution of an independent administrative appeal board.

On federal provincial relations, resolutions call for promition of bilingualism in the civil service and armed forces, a national constitutional conference, creating of a national capital commission with both languages.

PURSE STRINGS

There are other resolutions urging the federal government to keep control of the nation's economic purse strings and to establish a commission of enquiry with the provinces to assess social, economic, educational and cultural needs of the nation for the next 10 years.

There are 11 resolutions on housing.

These include: reduction of land cost, study of satellite cities, more low-rental housing, extension of time to pay off NHA mortgages, and tax allowance up to $500 on real estate.

On health and welfare, there are resolutions for a voluntary medicare program to be extended "as soon as possible" to cover the cost of drugs: $100 old age pension immediately; special allowances to widows with dependent children.

DIVORCE LAWS

There is also a resolution calling for the extension of divorce laws to include desertion, cruelty, incurable insanity, criminal habits, habitual drunkenness and drug addiction.

There is a suggestion the federal govenment give more aid to old people who lack proper housing and update the pensions of retired civil servants.

Another resolution calls for a national policy of medical research and a massive injection of federal aid to medical research and higher education.

The controversy over the Gerda Munsinger inquiry is reflicted in a resolution calling for an amendment to the Judges Act to prevent judges from conducting political inquiries.

Damage to the superstructure of the submarine was described by the navy as "extensive." There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The Nautilus was able to suface and was in no immediate danger, the navy said.

AND WHEREAS the Council of The Corporation of the District of Saanich has requested the Inspector of Municipalities to hold a Public Inquiry into these matters;

AND WHEREAS the Inspector of Municipalities has deemed it expedient to cause inquiry to be made and has authorized J. D. Baird, Deputy Inspector of Municipalities, to conduct an inquiry regarding the matters aforesaid, and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, to inquire into

(1) whether any present or past employee of The Corporation of the District of Saanich engaged in the Assessment Department thereof holds or has held shares in any Company, or is or has been a director or officer of any company, the objects of which include dealing in real estate;

(2) whether any company of which any such employee is or was a shareholder, director or officer has dealt in real estate within the municipality;

(3) whether any such employee has used information and knowledge gained in the pursuit of his official duties with respect to any real estate transaction of any company in which he holds or has held shares or is or has been a director or officer;

(4) whether any such employee has used information and knowledge gained in the pursuit of his official duties for private enterprise with respect to any real estate transaction within the municipality.

The holding of the Inquiry has been approved by Order in Council 3212 approved November 1st, 1966.

The first meeting of the Inquiry will be held on Friday, the 18th day of November, 1966, at 10:00 a.m. in the Council Chambers, Saanich Municipal Hall, 770 Vernon Avenue, Saanich, B.C.

The Inquiry will be open to the public and any person may appear and be heard with respect to matters within the terms of the Inquiry set out above. It would assist the Inquiry if any person intending to appear and be heard would give notice to the undersigned of his or her intention to do so by Wednesday the 16th day of November, 1966.

Germans Pick Kiesinger For Tough Job

BONN (Reuters)— West Germany's ruling Christian Democrats Thursday chose Kurt Georg Kiesinger, premier of the state of Baden-Wuerttemberg, as their candidate to succeed Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, and entrusted him with the tough task of restoring their parliamentary majority.

But the silver-haired lawyer's past association with the Nazi party could prove an obstacle to him winning the necessary support from either the Free Democrats or the Social Democrats, the two opposition parties.

There were also broad hints from the Social Democrats that the two opposition parties might go into coalition and use their majority in the Bundestag (lower house) to vote in as chancellor the Social Democrat leader, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin.

WON SUPPORT

Kiesinger, 62, defeated three rivals, Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, party floor leader Rainer Barzel, and Walter Hallstein, who is president of the European Common Market commission and was proposed at the last moment.

Franze Josef Strauss, powerful leader of the Bavarian branch of the Christian Democrats, threw his weight behind the Roman Catholic state premier and so did Eugen Gerstenmaier, speaker of the Bundestag, who withdrew his own candidacy Wednesday night,

In the last of three ballots by the Christian Democratic members of Parliament Kiesinger won 137 votes, Schroeder 81, and Barzel 26. Total party strength in the 496-sea. Bundestag is 245.

ADENAUER 'SATISFIED'

Konrad Adenauer, 90-year-old former chancellor whose constant sniping helped undermine Erhard's position, was at the meeting despite a recent spell of influenza. He said afterward: "I am satisfied with the choice of Kiesinger."

Kiesinger, in an interview Thursday night at his Bonn headquarters, said he will work for the swiftest possible unification of Europe if he becomes chancellor.

He also said Germany must strengthen its friendship with France.

NOT IN SS

Before the ballot, Kiesinger had a document distributed to all Christian Democratic party MPs emphasizing his opposition to Hitler's Nazi regime.

Wednesday night, for the second time in a week, Kiesinger denied allegations about his activities in Nazi Germany. He said it was untrue that he was a member of the Nazi SS (elite guard) or the brown - shirted storm troopers.

Resignation Demanded

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Angry opposition members Thursday clamored for the resignation of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi as a new storm blew up in Parliament over Monday's Hindu riots in the capital.

Uproar broke out in Parliament's lower house as a Samyukto socialist party member, Madhu Limaye, shouted to Mrs. Gandhi amid opposition cheers: "You more than anybody are responsible (for the riots). You should have told the president 'I am inefficient, incompetent and I can't run the government'."

Earlier, Mrs. Gandhi was reported to have decided against sweeping cabinet changes to deal with the religious and economic problems which exploded in violence and bloodshed this week.

Following Hotel Fracas

Heinekey Resigns SIU Executive Job

MONTREAL (CP) — Roderick Heinekey, a vice-president of the Seafarers International Union of Canada, has resigned and been paid $20,000 following an incident involving another union member in a downtown Vancouver hotel.

Leonard (Red) McLaughlin, president of the SIU, said in an interview Thursday.

"Brother Heinekey was suspended on my decision, in the spirit of the union's constitution, and decided to resign.

EXPENSES

"He has been paid two-thirds of the salary he would have received if he had completed his tenure of office, and moving expenses for his return to Vancouver."

A spokesman for the Board of Maritime Trustees added:

"We knew of the incident and asked the union to clear up the matter within the framework of its own constitution. This has been done.

RARELY HAPPENS

"We do have the power to discharge a union official but this is used only when absolutely necessary."

* * *

Back to coast

Mr. McLaughlin said the incident took place in the Georgia Hotel in downtown Vancouver about four or five weeks ago.

"One of our members had stood up at a union meeting and asked a question relating to brother Heinekey.

"Later, in the hotel, brother Heinekey and the member came to blows. The member apparently got the worst of it.

"I told brother Heinekey he was suspended because our constitution provides the fundamental right of members to stand up and speak freely at meetings. In this case I felt the member might feel constrained from speaking freely in future. However, I made no findings on the rights and wrongs of the incident itself.

DECIDED TO LEAVE

"Brother Heinekey accepted the suspension and later decided to resign.

"At a union meeting Wednesday I told the members of his resignation and brother Heinekey expressed his gratitude to the union."

Mr. Heinekey had been an SIU official in Vancouver for 19 years and Montreal port agent for the last three years.

The spokesman for the trustees said:

"We had no representative at the union meeting Wednesday but we had been kept fully informed at all stages. Heinekey resigned about three weeks ago."

Remembrance Day

THE sacrifice which they collectively made was individually repaid to them; for they received again each one for himself a praise which grows not old, and the noblest of all sepulchres—I speak not of that in which their glory survives, and is proclaimed always and on every fitting occasion both in word and deed . . . not only are they commemorated by columns and inscriptions in their own country, but in foreign lands there dwells also an unwritten memorial to them, graven not on stone but in the hearts of men.

—Pericles.

Broad Terms

THE ROYAL commission inquiry into the electronic "bugging" of a hotel room occupied by a pulp union leader is a welcome step and ought to be most interesting if the terms of reference stated by Premier Bennett are given their widest interpretation. The terms give the commissioner power to look into all circumstances related to the interference with privacy, and the premier has said that to him this means "a wide-open investigation."

The facts in the particular case that has given rise to the inquiry by former County Court Judge R. A. Sargent of Vancouver, perhaps will be fairly quickly established, and were this the only matter to be studied there would be some puzzlement as to why Premier Bennett would not be satisfied with a Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigation and any appropriate action that might follow.

But of more concern to the public are three questions: To what extent does electronic eavesdropping now exst in the province, in private investigation, in business competition and in police work? How could it possibly be curbed, effectively restricted to legitimate use by the police? And what would be accepted by most citizens as legitimate use?

To the first question the commissioner might find it difficult to obtain much of an answer. The practitioners are hardly apt to troop forward with information.

The third of course is the subject of continuing debate, although the airing of it before a royal commission would be a healthful exercise. It seems probable that the bulk of the public would be in accord with the police having a very limited power to wiretap, only with the authorization of a judge in specific instances, but would strongly support a complete ban on all other clandestine listening-in.

But the second question is the real puzzler, and if the commissioner could find adequate methods of enforcing the prohibition of today's highly refined eavesdropping devices (the Vancouver "bugs" being crude by comparison with some of them) this would be a great service not only to B.C. but to other parts of the world.

Nation Relieved

CANADIANS will read with relief that the illness of the governor-general, the Rt. Hon. General Georges P. Vanier, DSO, MC, is not serious. The impediment in the urinary tract, now removed, was found to be benign.

He may be released from hospital during this weekend.

But surgery for a man of His Excellency's years —he is 78—is always an ordeal, though it could in no way impair his unquenchable spirit. He survived desperately serious wounds, including the loss of a leg, in the First World War. The only concern now of those who have so much respect and devotion for this gallant and dignified figure is that the heavy responsibilities and exacting occasions in the centenary year may overtax him.

He would be the last man to evade what he considers his duty; but he should be guided by advisers concerned with his health in the sure knowledge that the Canadian people will understand and sympathize with any curtailment of his official program.

A Last Effort

THE UNITED APPEAL has now reached 82.7 per cent of its 1966 objective of $452,000. This is a creditable figure to date; if it were a college examination mark it would pass many a student towards higher status. For the Community Chest agencies, however, more is required so that they can carry out their assigned welfare roles during the next 12 months.

Returns from all the canvassers are of course not yet to hand, these of necessity being spread over a period that usually exceeds the time allotted in pre-campaign preparation. As this is written the 82.7 per cent figure is being raised.

There is the reminder, however, that no easement of effort or of giving may come into play except at the risk of the community failing to accomplish its goal. One hundred per cent is the figure that spells success, or certainly as close to this maximum as may enable the Chest agencies to do their required work without serious impairment of their value.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

TODAY it is once more that memory casts back to summon the image of those whom the nation mourns — the men and women who did not return from the wars.

And this is impressed more vividly than all else during the unique Silence that is the core of remembrance; the two-minute period when sound ceases and the mind ranges the gamut of wartime years.

As always is the case for this writer, by the swift alchemy of thought that can travel so far in so brief a respite, it means a recall that will focus on a boyhood friend who lies somewhere among the Judean Hills. It was there he fell while still a boy, and he becomes the centre of personal remembrance. As the poet put it he never grew old, and the photographs that depict him show him as eternally young.

As will all pictures of those who fell in what one likes to think was not a vain cause.

* * *

The world is yet full of trouble and the quest for peace goes on; probably it always will for mankind has yet to live in universal fellowship. But Remembrance Day revives the fallen afresh and they come back to life in individual memory.

All who served in wartime days have their own particular and precious friends to recall, as have the families touched by loss of their loved ones.

Time has mercifully leavened the anguish of grief, so that the ache, while never fading in entirety, has lessened in the sharpness of its impact and the Cenotaph ceremonies fulfill their purpose of Lest We Forget.

* * *

Today is also a holiday, when tribute having been paid life must continue. The thrown torch must be grasped as a reminder to carry on.

This does not weaken the spirit of remembrance, nor the reverence so deeply observed during a sacred silence that can almost be felt. Reveille, the call to another day, always follows the Last Post.

That is why the military bands, when returning across the Causeway after the ceremonies, strike up tunes gay and lilting to match the new dawn that follows the offerings of gratitude for the service above self that is the hallmark of a nation's war dead.

That is why also that later this day, and into the evening, groups of ex-servicemen will meet to retain something of the years that for them are etched in red figures. Mourning has its fitting place and moments, and having made deep and inmost obeisance to those of their kind no longer with them, their memories include less grievous recall.

* * *

Nor do they sing with gusto the songs that were their wartime familiars in denial of the spirit that embraces them when the Two Minutes Silence wafts them close to the former comrades for whom this remembrance is fashioned. Nor is to glorify war that they meet in mood of cheer, for none know what battlefield service is like as do those who lived through such experience.

But they have the saving grace of humor and comradeship that saw them through the sternest of endeavors and trancends other companionship, and was of itself an attribute of those whom they have mourned.

And the memory of the latter never entirely fades; it has grown to be part of the fibre of their being. Others who are not and cannot be expected to be so affected, cannot appreciate the same fullness of Remembrance Day. In their hearts the veterans never forget.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

British and Canadian troops repelled American invaders 153 years ago today — in 1813 — at the battle of Crysler's Farm, near Cornwall, Ont. About 800 defenders beat off 2,000 Americans and killed their commander, Gen. Covington, in a stubborn fight. Most of the British troops were local farmers and townsmen whereas the Americans were all regulars. The battlefield now is occupied by the Upper Canada Village.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1916 — 4th Canadian Division captured Regina Trench at the Somme. The Duke of Devonshire arrived at Halifax and took office as governor-general. Sir Sam Hughes resigned as minister of militia at Prime Minister Robert Borden's request.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1941 — 150 Yugoslavs were arrested as hostages after partisan attacks on Italian troops. Gen George Pearkes, V.C., took over Gen. McNaughton's command after the latter was ordered on sick leave with a lung infection. British submarines sank four Axis freighters in the Mediterranean.

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

MAN, it's getting that you just can't win when you do business with the government.

Any government, probably — but especially the federal.

You thought that perhaps you were on your way towards having it made in your old age when the welfare staters of the federal establishment put together the Canada Pension Plan.

You figured that with The Plan you had a base—furnished by the federal providers at a monthly $104.17 on a maximum pensionable income of $5,000 — on which you could build privately.

You might make much more than $5,000 — but no matter how much you made, $5,001 or $5,000,001 — all The Plan will pay will be the maximum, currently $104.17.

But on that, you hope, you could pile your company pension, private savings, insurance, annuities, investment income and whatever you managed to squirrel away.

Trouble is, optimists that we all are, they, like you, probably calculated on making it to the pensionable 65 under The Plan, and living long enough into a comfortable old age to cash in on at least part of what they'd be ante-ing up through the years in taxes for the federal pension.

* * *

The catch is that there are two catches.

One: You could be one of the unlucky 28 losers in every 100 taxpayers who aren't going to get to 65.

Two: At least some of the pension benefits you're counting on are going to be wiped out by the continuing spiral of wages and prices that the pension itself helps to generate.

You're going to be paying taxes into the pension pot until you're 65.

If you're now 55, you're the biggest winner that's ever going to come down the Canada Pension Plan pike.

For you, it's relatively a bonanza — full payment after 65 for as long as you live for only 10 years of tax contributions.

The younger you are, the more you're going to have to pony up in taxes towards your pension — so what are the odds of making 65 or better?

That is, of all the income-earning males of, say, 21 and older now alive, how many are going to live to collect?

Both the Met Life and DBS agree that only 72 out of every 100 will get to the pension starting line.

The losing 28, after paying out all their working lives from now on, are going to drop off before cash-in 65, although of course their widows and dependants will benefit up to a point.

* * *

And only 60 out of every 100 will reach 70, and collect that monthly $104.17 for five years.

Forty will get to 75.

At 80 there will be only some 20 around.

But cheer up, you could be one of those one-in-100,000 centenarians who beat the mortality tables and become horrible examples for the keepers of the federal purse who love to collect but hate to disburse.

Now about the Bank of Canada governor and Catch Two.

They had Louis Rasminsky up before the special Senate-Commons committee on consumer credit the other day, and asked him this question:

"Mr. Governor: Do you consider the Canada Pension Plan a form of savings?"

And the governor answered: "In itself, to the extent that there is an increase in contributions and deductions from payrolls, it is a form of savings, but only conceptually.

"To the extent that it gets passed on in the form of higher prices and to the extent that it affects wage negotiations and gets compensated in the form of higher wages, the savings aspect of it is offset."

* * *

The welfare staters, anticipating this dissipation of the actual hard money value of the pension, wrote escalation clauses into The Plan, to increase the pensionable salary ceiling beyond $5,000 and increase the payment from the monthly $104.17 to pace the climbing cost of living.

Dandy, except that Governor Rasminsky figures with such increases built into the spiral, you never really have much hope of catching up — even if you do live long enough to cash in.

"Tiger Down-the-Hole"

Two Scots Pioneer India Well-Boring

By CYRIL DUNN from New Delhi

AN Indian typist once put John McLeod down as an "agricultural machinery." It was not all that wide of the mark. For Mr. McLeod belongs to a new species now operating in India called agricultural missionaries and his job requires him to come and go in a weird machine with which the villagers identify him.

Starting life as a farmer in Inverness and now a young minister in the Church of Scotland, Mr. McLeod fits with unusual precision the dictionary definition of deus ex machina. In the drought-prone backblocks of Maharashtra where he works he is without doubt "a power coming in the nick of time to solve human difficulties" and for the parched local peasantry "a providential interposition."

Mr. McLeod is a reverend blaster and well-borer. Working alongside him is another Scot, an explosives engineer called David Goodsir. At the headquarters here in Delhi of the Committee on Relief of the National Christian Council of India, they reckon these two have so far opened up about 1,000 new wells and in a radius of 200 miles have sent water splashing out over what is notoriously one of the driest parts of India. Opening a new well in a neighborhood like this is like uncovering a vein of gold in less afflicted areas of the world.

The machine they use is made in Halifax, Yorkshire. It is a mobile well-borer called "Tiger down-the-hole" and has a number of advantages over bigger and more spectacular rigs. For one thing, it folds in upon itself and ends up looking like a small armoured car. Other drills have to be transported in parts on a couple of trucks and can take two or three days to set up. The Halifax machine also has a narrow wheel-base, which means it can be driven in through the exiguous lanes of an Indian mud-hut village if the local astrologer feels, as he is apt to do, that the well should be sunk close to the temple forecourt. The vehicle has no springs, but this inflicts hardship only on those who travel in it and in this case they do not seem to mind.

Raising their rig over a barren and bone-dry patch of ground, the McLeod-Goodsir team can with luck have a well sunk and a hand-pump installed, issuing water to an enchanted queue of village women, within 24 hours.

Once, to impress a meeting of Indian experts, they set to work outside as the chairman called the meeting to order and had a new well going when it adjourned two hours later — admittedly in soft ground and with a handy water-table.

Struggle Of Giants Observed

By OTTO VON HABSBURG
from Hong Kong

AMONG the observation posts in the Far East, Hong Kong remains the best. All important persons going to Peking pass through it. True, the border has become more impassable since the Red Guards have taken over; still Communist China's economy must breathe and the British colony is its lung. This is also the reason why, at a time when the whole world is being decolonized, Mao Tse-tung does not say a word about the presence of "foreign devils" along his coast.

The "cultural revolution," as the fit of madness gripping the great Asiatic power is called, is a strange phenomenon. It is often hard to find a rational explanation for this mixture of fanaticism, iconoclasm and the fury to destroy traditional values. Still, behind the raving youthful hordes one can already perceive a struggle for power that is bound to influence Asia's political future.

The ultimate reason for the present evolution seems to have been the series of diplomatic setbacks suffered by Peking in the course of the last 18 months. There was the loss of Indonesia, the weakening of its African positions, North Korea's escape into the Soviet camp. These defeats were the direct consequence of Mao Tse-tung's adventurous policies. He has consequently been severely criticized in the party. This has led to a growing tension between him and influential persons of the Central Committee, especially Liu Shao-chi. To meet this increasing pressure Mao was compelled to conclude an alliance with the armed forces of Lin Piao. Together they mobilized the teenagers who carry out the purge, helped, whenever needed, by the military.

This movement against the official organization is likely to succeed, China will have a new Communist Party. Nevertheless, once the common enemy has been liquidated, terror will not stop. Those who know the situation believe that Lin Piao and Mao Tse-tung, allies today, are the rivals of tomorrow. Unless Mao dies soon, a battle of the giants approaches. Qualified observers believe that the real power has already passed into the hand of Lin Piao.

Whatever happens, this upheaval will deeply influence Red China's world-wide role. One can not carry out at the same time a domestic revolution and an effective foreign policy. All the signs seem to indicate that a weakened Peking will retire temporarily from the international scene. A period of relative calm can be expected for a while. Many will talk of lessening tensions, of a genuine chance for peace.

After Expo

Russians May Lift Curtain

By CASSANDRA from London

In the main they have usually seemed to me to be a form of highly-organised happiness, a compulsory heaven in which you will have a good time — or else.

I think being dragged to the Wembley Exhibition in the early twenties rather did for me. We were lugged around unmercifully and the only two things I can remember at all well were a room where you could smash as much crockery as you liked for one shilling and the Prince of Wales made out of salted New Zealand butter kept at twenty degrees Fahrenheit.

This last exhibit was an object of veneration and reverence. There he was, Prince Charming, Ich Dien himself, sculpted with a loyal butter knife in tons of the yellow stuff.

Now here in Montreal everything is going full bore to get ready for Expo 67 — or to give it its white tie and tails title the Universal and International Exhibition to celebrate 100 years of Canadian Confederation.

We will not have the Prince of Wales here in butter next April when it opens, but everybody is expecting the Queen in person shortly after it begins.

* * *

The theme of Expo is on a lofty plane and was explained to us by an eloquent gentleman who managed to combine a wheedling variety act with a sermon, but as his audience was mainly made up of American bankers maybe they could do with it.

The text of this world exhibition is "Man and His World," and in the official words "will combine drama and serenity, fear and hope and should be overpowering in its effect." The sub-themes are "Man the Creator," "Man the Explorer," "Man the Producer," "Man and the Community" and "Man the Provider."

There is no mention of "Man the Destroyer," Man the Stay-at-Home," "Man the Seducer," "Man the Bad Neighbor" or "Man the Purloiner." They just don't play that kind of music here.

Sixty-nine nations will take part. The Russians will be here in a mighty pavilion glowering across a stretch of water at the Americans in their gigantic exhibit. The Soviet Union which by popular vote had won the right to hold the 1967 World Exhibition in Moscow (and to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the October Revolution of 1917) refused the wonderful opportunity.

Then the comrades seem to have wished that they hadn't and the word has gone round that next spring is the time to come bursting out all over and right through the Iron Curtain. The Czechs, the Yugoslavs and the Cubans will be here to hoist the Red Star on the St. Lawrence. The rumor is that the Soviets plan to show a lump of the moon's surface in their pavilion, and the story is that it will be stored in a heavily guarded refrigerator along with the other green cheeses.

* * *

Great Britain is very strongly represented in a striking building designed by Sir Basil (Coventry Cathedral) Spence. He is said to be more pleased with it than anything he has ever designed, with the possible exception of Sussex College. At this stage of construction it is not easy to discern the architectural theme, but at the moment it looks like the stump of a great white tree which may symbolise the growth and vitality of our country — or something hacked down in the prime of life.

Mr. Sean Kenny is responsible for the interior decor, which promises to be magnificent. It is said that when he was given the chance to express the Anglo-Saxon mood he remarked, in the best Dublin brogue, "Now's the chance to show six hundred years of misery inflicted by the bloddy British on old Ireland." And if it isn't true it should be.

There will be buskers to entertain any waiting queues, and real live kangaroos from Australia. Kangaroos are, it seems, very sensitive to all noise and especially music. I was told that the kangaroos are being indoctrinated by having recorded symphony concerts plyed to them while they are awaiting export from Australia —and who am I to contradict a nice tale?

* * *

There will be fireworks every night, flotillas of real crocodiles, a rock 'n' roll centre, Mr. Onassis in his yacht, an international soccer tournament, a Wild West show, Yehudi Menuhin, motorised troubadour units, a stagecoach robbery, the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and a planned jailbreak.

What more can a man ask? For those who want a quiet ride there will be a flight through space ending in a descent down the spout of a fiery volcano in full eruption.

'Halt Viet Nam Bombing'

Russia Stands Firm

MOSCOW (CP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko refused Thursday to budge from the Kremlin's long-standing position that the United States must unilaterally halt its bombing of North Viet Nam as a prelude to any peace talks.

* * *

In a 2½-hour talk with Canada's External Affairs Minister Martin, Gromyko was reported to have taken a tough line on Viet Nam, despite recent reports of new flexibility in Russia's approach.

* * *

The Soviet foreign minister was understood to have emphasized that in the Kremlin view there can be no question of concessions on the bombing issue. Furthermore, the bombing halt should be just one of a series of steps leading to a complete American withdrawal from Viet Nam.

New York Remembers Last Year's Blackout

NEW YORK (AP) — At precisely 5:27 p.m. Wednesday, the lights went out in the Tower Suite of the Time-Life building.

No one at the party there panicked, however. They barely looked up from their drinks. This year, everybody knew it was a joke.

* * *

The party — thrown by a distilling company — was one of many observances marking the first anniversary of the great northeast power failure. It honored all people — such as physicians, nurses, policemen and firemen — who helped keep things running during the blackout.

* * *

At 5:27 p.m. Nov. 9, 1965, the lights started to go out. They remained out for up to 13 hours, leaving 30,000,000 people in seven states and Ontario and Quebec in darkness.

Many persons in New York turned out lights and lit candles Wednesday night in memory of the blackout. The had candle-light dinners and parties.

* * *

Florida Girl Gets Wish— Rapists Sentenced to Die

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — An 18-year-old girl who requested the death penalty for three accused rapists got her wish.

An all-male jury decreed the full penalty — death in the electric chair — for three youths charged with raping the girl.

In her testimony, the Miami Beach girl told the jurors: "They should be fully punished for what they did' I want them to die."

Sentenced to death were John F. Smalley, 19, Samuel Choice, 20, and Robert Glissendanner, 18, all of suburban West Hollywood.

* * *

PARIS — Patricia Viterbo, 23, French movie actress accidentally backed her car into the Seine River and drowned during the filming of a spy movie, Judoka Agent Secret (Judo Expert, Secret Agent). Miss Viterbo, a tall, striking blonde and a former Dior fashion model, had played in a score of films.

Two Chinas in UN

Canadian Plan Rouses Worry

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese and United States governments are deeply concerned by a reported Canadian plan to propose to the United Nations that two Chinas be seated as members, the newspaper Asahi says.

Both governments plan to ask Canada to reconsider, Asahi says. Japanese government officials could not be reached for comment.

William Bundy, U.S. assistant undersecretary of state, is believed to have advised the Japanese ambassador in Washington, Ryuji Takeuchi, of the Canadian intention Wednesday, Asahi says.

FEAR SUPPORT

Washington and Tokyo are afraid the Canadian proposal will find wide support in the UN and jeopardize the plans of the U.S., aided by Japan, to block Communist China's membership for at least another year, Asahi says.

The newspaper says the U.S.-Japanese strategy is to propose, as in the past, that Communist China's admission be declared an important matter, requiring a two-thirds majority of the 121-member General Assembly. They are said confident Peking would fall short of such a majority in the assembly.

DEBATE NOV. 21

Takezo Shimoda, Japan's deputy foreign minister, denied earlier press reports Thursday that Japan and the United States plan to make a two-Chinas proposal.

Pearson Offers No Details

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson confirmed Thursday that the government is trying a new approach on the China question but he gave no details.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker asked whether Canada will co-sponsor a resolution along the lines of asking the United Nations secretary-general to explore the basis upon which Communist China might be seated in the Security Council and Nationalist China in the General Assembly.

Canada was discussing with its friends the attitude which could possibly be adopted on the usual Albanian resolution seeking Red China's seating in the UN and Nationalist China's expulsion.

Driving Trial Continues

Witness Tried for Keys

Assize Court trial of Petty Officer Brian Dale McMillan moved into its second day Thursday.

McMillan entered pleas of not guilty to charges of dangerous driving and impaired driving Wednesday morning.

First witness called Thursday, by assistant Crown prosecutor Cecil Branson, was PO John Welch of CFB Esquimalt, who described how he and the accused had sat in the mess of HMCS New Glasgow on the afternoon of April 22.

GLASS OF BEER

He said he had seen the accused get a lot of rum.

A second navy man, PO Harvey Johnson, told the court he had seen McMillan in the Six Mile House beer parlor and had had a glass of beer with him.

The two men later returned to the Esquimalt mess but, said PO Johnson, the bar was closed. The two men then went to the Tudor House, a beer parlor in Esquimalt.

HEARD CRASH

Mr. Johnson told the court, presided over by Mr. Justice James Macdonald, he had asked McMillan for his car keys on several occasions.

Linda Nobbs, who was waiting at a bus stop near the accident scene in the 800 block Esquimalt, said she saw a small car mount the curb and later heard a crash.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel Ken Murphy, the witness insisted she saw three wheels of the car on the sidewalk.

Esquimalt Constable Douglas Sproxton said he found the accused sitting behind the wheel of the car that had collided with another vehicle on Esquimalt Road.

It was in this accident that Daniel George was fatally injured.

The case will continue at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Voters Want Runoff

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Twelve voters appealed Thursday for a federal court order requiring a runoff governor's election between Republican Howard H. (Bo) Callaway and Democrat Lester G. Maddox, who were thrown into a no-majority deadlock by a write-in campaign.

Lawyers and the bipartisan voter group asked that their lawsuit be joined with one filed Wednesday in a move to block election of the governor by the Georgia legislature.

A hearing has been set for today on the first lawsuit—an offshot of the unusual Tuesday election outcome. The same three judges will hear both cases.

Maddox 443,676, or 47 per cent; Callaway 442,045, or 46.9 per cent, and write-in candidate Ellis G. Arnall, 57,699, or six per cent.

January Draft Call Lowest Since June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department called Wednesday for a military draft of 27,000 men in January, the lowest total for a full month since last summer.

Bullseye Scored By Lunar Orbiter

PASADENA, Calif (UPI) — America's Lunar Orbiter 2 centred a bullseye orbit around the moon Thursday in a continuing study of possible landing sites for Apollo astronauts.

More than three weeks ago the Soviet Union placed Luna 12 into orbit around the moon but it was not expected to interfere or collide with Orbiter's path or communications.

The 850-pound satellite completed the 232,000-mile voyage from Cape Kennedy, where it was launched atop an Atlas-Agena rocket Sunday, in 93 hours.

Sale of Bonds By Payroll Setting Record

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

With the campaign not quite complete, the sale of Canada Savings Bonds on Vancouver Island by payroll deduction has reached a new record, topping the previous year's total by $110,000.

W. F. Munro, in charge of Vancouver Island sales, reported Thursday sales of $2,230,950 from 5,780 applications. Last year's complete figures were $2,119,600 sales from a slightly higher number of 5,960 applicants.

Sales were up by 90 per cent in the Nanaimo School Board; by 40 per cent in Vancouver Island Coachlines, by 20 per cent in B.C. Forest Products and St. Joseph Hospital and by 10 per cent in the City of Victoria employees and in the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

AHEAD OF '65

Mr. Munro said that 37 of the 57 firms co-operating in the sale of bonds were ahead of a year ago.

"When the figures are completed I think there will be about another $50,000 to add to the total," said Mr. Munro.

FOR TAR SAND OIL

Sun Oil Company is to spend $2,000,000 on its Sarnia refinery so that it will be able to handle crude oil from the company's subsidiary Great Canadian Oil Sands.

The synthetic crude from the Athabaska tar sands due to go into production next year requires special treatment in the hands of the refiners.

Sun will instal new heat exchangers, product coolers and will retray the crude and stripper towers.

IAC CATCHING UP

Industrial Acceptance net earnings for the nine months to Sept. 30 were $9,723,000 ($1.54) compared with $8,929,855 ($1.46) in the corresponding period of 1965.

J. B. Pennefather said the parent company's earnings were themselves below a year ago but that was a reflection of the high money costs. He added that the gap was beginning to close as the higher charges levied for services were beginning to be apparent in earnings.

EXTENSION SOUGHT

The Rainbow Pipe Line Co. Ltd., which serves the rich new Rainbow-Zama Lake oil fields in northwestern Alberta, is seeking permission to extend itself into the Northwest Territories.

To do this it requires permission of the federal government and the National Energy Board.

A bill which would allow Rainbow Lake inter-provincial operations has been introduced to the House by Senator Earl Hastings, an oil executive from Calgary.

Rainbow Pipeline is owned by four companies — Imperial Oil, Socony Mobil of Canada, Aquitaine of Canada and Banff Oil Ltd. The line was recently completed at a cost of $27,000,000.

Ceasefire Thought Blunder

No Rousing Cheers That Grey Morning

By GUS SIVERTZ

Boussu was typical of all Belgain coal mining towns on the damp, grey morning of Nov. 11, 1918.

It stood athwart the big Route Nationale from Valenciennes to Mons and it was here that Lt.-Col. G. C. Johnston, officer commanding the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, was handed the Armistice cease-fire order. Just like that.

He didn't throw his hat in the air, or call for three rousing cheers. In fact he looked angry and to a group standing near I heard him say:

"The bloody fools. Now the Boche armies will march across the Rhine bridges as heroes. Another couple of months of comparatively easy warfare and we could have smashed him beyond repair as a fighting machine.

"Now your sons and mine will have to do this again in 25 years."

With that he strode away and left us standing in silence holding our cooling breakfasts in our hands.

When news of the Armistice was posted all troops formally informed a strange thing happened. Nobody cheered. Of course we had felt ever since leaving the Cambrai area in mid-October that we were pursuing a stubborn but defeated army. Mighty stubborn. We lost 32 killed and 51 wounded on Nov. 5 just in taking the little village of Quiverain!

* * *

Perhaps the Armistice came as a sort of remission of a long sentence; a thing dreamed of — like a nice Blighty through the fat of one's thigh — dreamed of, but exceedingly remote.

But the Belgian people simply went crazy in their joy, in which we certainly shared once the truth came home to us.

* * *

And the next day, behind its band, the 2nd CMRs stepped out along the highway to Mons to a reception beyond all hope of description.

Behind were four years in which they had fought and defeated the cream of the German armies. And although they fought with fierce determination and a sort of insolent courage and elan, for the most part they fought without hate.

For Jordan River Mine

New Financing Key to Reopening

VANCOUVER (CP) — O. G. MacDonald, president of Cowichan Copper, said Thursday he will make another attempt to get the company's Sunro Mine, at Jordan River on Vancouver Island, back into production.

The mine was flooded late in 1963.

Mr. MacDonald said he will try to raise new financing after company creditors voted at a meeting to accept a new Cowichan debt proposal, under which creditors will get 40 cents on the dollar when and if the mine gets back into production.

About 44 creditors attended the meeting.

Cowichan's debts total $3,910,000.

"I told the creditors that I wouldn't be wasting their time unless I believed I could raise new financing," Mr. MacDonald said.

Garbage Issue Regional But City Has Questions

Victoria city council went along Thursday with the concept that the disposal of garbage in this district should be regional board responsibility, but it still wants answers to a lot of questions.

Among them:

- How and by whom should refuse be collected?
- Should there be one huge disposal area, or many?
- Should the use of private firms for collection and disposal be discontinued?
- What about incineration?
- How much is all this going to cost, and who will pay what share?

The issue, which evolved from a technical report prepared recently be engineering and health authorities of the district and submitted to the inter-municipal committee, was tossed around in informal discussion Thursday following a meeting of city council.

Consensus was that over-all control by the regional board of the capital of B.C. would be good, but that the report should be sent back and the experts asked to come up with a specific recommendation.

In the report the technicians gave several alternatives for disposal, including compaction and minimum cover with solid, a controlled landfill operation, and smokeless and odorless burning.

Previous studies have shown that while the incineration method is most desirable it is extremely expensive. It has been estimated that a smokeless, odorless incineration plant, big enough to dispose of all the district's garbage, would cost $2,000,000.

Mayor Toone pointed out Thursday that while the problem might be brought under regional control, municipalities would still have the right to their own collection systems.

Tribute Paid Mooney

City council Thursday observed a minute's silence in memory of former alderman Millard Mooney, who died recently.

A resolution of regret and sympathy, passed by a standing vote, will be sent to the family of the man who was a member of city council for 14 years.

* * *

Welfare recipients will receive the usual Christmas bonus from the city — $10 for heads of families and $4 each for single persons.

* * *

Aldermen authorized payment of a share of the $1,500 it will cost to repair some of the damage caused by a fire on Mount Douglas this autumn.

* * *

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LAUREL, Md. (CP) — Canada's George Royal, his chances buoyed by prospects of a heavy turf track, makes another bid today to win the $150,000 Washington International horse race here.

It may be the last start for the durable Canadian-bred five-year-old, who ranks behind only the retired Northern Dancer as the highest money winner among Canadian horses and ranks first for Western Canada.

"He looks to be as good or better than a year ago," co-owner Robert Hall of Vancouver said Thursday night.

GRASS THREAT

Assagai, an American three-year-old and top grass threat, was a heavy favorite for the 15th running of the 1½ - mile event, which only two favorites have captured. Assagai, like George Royal, prefers the heavy going but the other American entry, Tom Rolfe, doesn't and his grass record is less spectacular.

Tom Rolfe was made second favorite at 4 to 1, however, the rating given George Royal last year when the Canadian entry came fourth.

George Royal, Britain's David Jack and the Soviet Union's Aniline, another mudder who finished third in 1964, well back of the great Kelso and Gun Bow, share odds of 6 to 1.

CARRIES 127 POUNDS

George Royal, like all horses aged four or more, is carrying 127 pounds, compared with 120 for Assagai. He drew post position No. 3.

Hall, here to watch the race with his Vancouver partner, Ernie Hammond, said the field of 10, representing seven countries, will make it more difficult for George Royal than last year's field of seven.

George Royal likes to come from behind and it is harder in a larger field to keep good position or get through.

Hall said the fact jockey Ismael Valenzuela has ridden George twice, winning the Canadian championship at Toronto's Woodbine for a second time recently, is a plus.,

THREE FOR FRANCE

France, which placed one-two in 1965, has three three-year-old horses in the race this time, while Brazil and Venezuela round out the field. France, with four victories, leads foreign entries, which have won seven times to seven for American horses. This is Russia's eighth bid.

Hall said this could be George Royal's last race and thought is being given to establishing a syndicate for stud duty.

He said George Royal, who has won the San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita, Calif., twice, has earned about $322,000 so far. He won $10,000 for fourth place here last year.

* * *

Post Positions

LAUREL, Md. (CP)—Canada's George Royal, owned by Bob Hall and Ernie Hammond of Vancouver, drew the No. 3 post position today for Friday's running of the $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel race track.

The No. 1 post position went to Brazil's Folio, with Russia's Aniline in No. 2. The favored Assagai of the United States got No. 6.

The No. 5 spot went to Tom Rolfe, the second U.S. representative and the runner-up in the advance odds.

No. 4 was drawn by Vasco de Gama of France, No. 7 by Behistoun also of France, No. 8 by England's David Jack, No. 9 by Venezuela's Socopo, and No. 10 by the third Frency entry, Silver Shark.

A steady rain poured down on the turf track all night, but trainers reported the course still firm for the 1½-mile race. The forecast called for the rain to stop later today.

Threat

Major offensive threat for Oak Bay is end Cam Crofton who expects to see a lot of action when Farmer Construction meets Renfrew Trojans in today's sudden-death B.C. Juvenile Football final at Macdonald Park at 1 p.m.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Outdoors emphasis returns to hunting again this holiday weekend with antlerless deer fair game from today until Nov. 27.

This is also the time of the year where extra safety precautions should be practised in the bush. Wear blaze orange and be sure of your target before you shoot.

Both bucks and does are in season. The danger is that hunters don't have to look for horns. The occasional careless hunter may make a sound shot and that sound just could be another man. So . . . BE SEEN, BE SURE, BE SAFE in this part of the hunting season which has become known as the "silly season."

Outlook for goose hunters at Tofino this week is pretty good so far as birds are concerned, but Reuben Parker reported bright sunny weather at Tofino Thursday which isn't the best for waterfowl hunters. Upwards of 5,000 big Canadas are reported flying around the many inlets in the Tofino area.

* * *

Cowichan Bay is still the best bet for saltwater anglers.

Jim Gilbert estimates there are still nearly 30,000 fish in Cowichan Bay, some of them fresh, bright coho which appear to be arriving daily.

Best fishing has been in the middle of the Bay between Genoa Bay and Wilcuma and Gilbert has been getting them on bucktail fly on the surface and as deep as 100 and 150 feet of wire line and planer. Jacks and the odd big spring (chinook) are being taken on deep lines.

Grilse fishing is still good in Saanich Inlet, off Tod Inlet, Willis Point, Senanus Island, Indian Bay and Bamberton with spoons and small minnows and four to six ounces of weight. The odd coho is being taken and some big winter springs (not many) have shown off Bamberton, seemingly on their way into Finlayson Arm.

Jacksprings are now providing most of the sport in Finlayson Arm with Minnow-Teaser and Strip-Teasers best producers.

Off Oak Bay, it has been mostly jacksprings with the occasional winter spring showing. Spin casters are getting jacksprings in Victoria's outer harbor.

The winter springs seem to be arriving late, although some good catches have been reported from Esquimalt waters.

A few jacksprings have been taken off Pedder Bay, but the winter springs have still to arrive. There was fantastic fishing there, at this time last year. A few winter springs are being taken off Secretary Island, but it is a little too early for the main run off Whiffen Spit.

At Campbell River the winter springs are being taken in Duncan Bay off the pulp mill. Coho and jacks are being taken at Crofton and fish deep for winter springs in Sansum Narrows.

* * *

Sayward Forest lakes are all reported pretty fair for trout, so combine that hunting trip this weekend with some fishing.

Coho are late returning to the rivers and are just starting to enter the bigger rivers now. There were few in the Nitinat last weekend when we fished it, but we did manage to get a trout and a jack on a Luhr Jensen Sneak spinner. My wife, Taffy, found the same lure productive on the Cowichan River Friday in the Skutz Falls area and in the Riverbottom-Stoltz pool, for both coho and jacks. She released two bright coho. Jim Hume used a similar lure to catch an early-run steelhead in a Sooke river at the weekend. Harris Creek is producing steelhead and there are some steelhead in the Crossover section of the San Juan. Stamp and Ash Rivers now contain some steelhead.

Remember the Cowichan is closed from the weir to the black CNR bridge just above Skutz Falls, which includes the shingle mill pools, the Rips, The Willow and Cabin Pool fishing waters, but the rest of the Cowichan is open for fishing.

SOLUNAR TABLES WHEN TO FISH OR HUNT by Richard Alden Knight

According to the Solunar Tables calculated for this area, the best times for hunting and fishing today and tomorrow will be as follows (Times shown are Pacific Standard Time):

	A.M. Minor	A.M. Major	P.M. Minor	P.M. Major
TODAY	6:05	9:40	4:10	10:05
TOMORROW	6:45	10:30	4:35	11:00

Major solunar periods, lasting 1½ to 2 hours, dark type.

TORONTO 0, BOSTON 4
CHICAGO 0, DETROIT 3

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings played the roll of giant killers in National Hockey League action, Thursday night, defeating Toronto and Chicago respectively, who are one-two in the standings.

	GP	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts
Chicago	8	6	2	0	31	20	12
Toronto	10	3	2	5	22	24	11
Montreal	8	4	3	1	19	20	9
Detroit	10	4	5	1	24	20	9
Boston	10	3	5	2	20	25	8
New York	10	2	5	3	20	31	7

Next games Saturday: New York at Montreal, Toronto at Detroit.

SORE BACK

Hull, with four goals and three assists in Chicago's first seven games, has been plagued with back trouble and didn't even dress for the game.

HALL OUT

In Boston, rookie goaltender Gerry Cheevers, recalled from the minor leauges just four days ago, recorded his first National Hockey League shutout as the Bruins upset Toronto 4-0.

Boston wasted little time in going ahead when Murray Oliver scored his second goal of the season. Toronto goaltender Terry Sawchuk was checked while trying to clear the puck out of his zone and couldn't recover in time to stop Oliver's shot.

Boston defenceman, Joe Watson, had to leave the game in the first period when he was hit by a stick and lost three teeth.

Knudson Still Leads But Canada Falls

TOKYO (CP) — Canada's George Knudson withstood the tremendous pressure of a star-studded field that played before him and shot a for-under-par 68 today to hold the individual lead in the Canada Cup international golf tournament with a 36-hole total of 132, 12 under par.

Knudson, 29-year-old native of Winnipeg who is a teaching pro at a Toronto country club, had set a Canada Cup as well as a course record with a sensational 64 in the first round Thursday.

His partner, 34-year-old Frank Fowler of Calgary, slipped badly today to a four-over-par 76 after a first-round 70. His total was 146 and gave the Canadian team an over-all score of 278 which dropped it out of the top team spot as the United States took over first place with a dazzling 270.

Knudson, who was tied after nine holes this morning with American Arnold Palmer and Kel Nagle, caught and passed Arnie on the sixteenth and seventeenth holes with a pair of birdies.

Knudson took a one-stroke lead over the American star, who added a 68 to his first round 69 for 133.

Knduson's advantage was endangered on the eighteenth hole. He missed the green from the tee, and had to chip up from the rough. The ball rolled past the cup 12 feet but the happy Canadian tapped the ball in, accompanied by a joyous leap.

FOUR BIRDIES

Knudson had a 36 on the front side but birdied the eleventh, twelfth, sixteenth and seventeenth.

Palmer shot 33-34 over the par 36-36—72 Yomiuri country club course just outside Tokyo.

Jack Nicklaus, the other American entry in the tournament, where 36 teams from 34 countries plus Hawaii and Puerto Rico are competing, had 35-33—68 in the second round for 137.

The Americans were 18 under par over-all while the Canadians were 10 under.

Canada had held a one-stroke lead over four countries — Australia, Nationalist China, the U.S. and Japan — going into the second round.

Moilanen Paces Totem Victory

Ollie Moilanen returned to last season's form Thursday, scoring 27 points to lead Victoria High Totems to a narrow 47-45 victory over Claremont in inter-high school basketball at Victoria High.

In the other games Oak Bay trounced Mount View, 58-32, at Oak Bay and St. Louis College topped Esquimalt, 44-30.

Claremont was led by Jim McHattie with 15 points and Dave Blade with 14 as they lost their second straight game by two points.

Esquimalt's Bob DeCosta turned in a fine effort scoring 27 points but John Smith with 18 and Terry Ackerman with 13 led St. Louis to the victory.

CLAREMONT (45)—Dave Blade 14, Vern Benn 4, Jim McHattie 15, Ken Lundeen 8, Southard Quent, Malcolm McMillan, John Sheldrake, Glen Cambridge, Ted Clark, Dave Tooby 4.

VICTORIA HIGH (47)—Roger Halfhide 2, Greg Schroeder 4, Paul Lee, Barry Moen, Len Rouche 2, Dexter Mason 10, Bill Clark 2, Joe Teller, Ollie Moilanen 27.

Alberni Provides Macs Competition

Victoria Coffee Macs meet Alberni Athletics this weekend, in the first two games of their Inter-City Senior "A" Men's Basketball League Season, in Victoria.

Team manager, John Devlin, is confident that the Macs can take both games from the A's. Victoria played an exhibition game at Alberni two weeks ago, were beaten by 19 points, but were missing high scoring John Lauveas and Ken Gregory, a strong rebounder.

On Sunday, at 2 p.m., the Macs try something new, holding the game at the University of Victoria gymnasium in the hope fans will respond to afternoon basketball.

Saturday's game will be held at Central Junior High at 8:30 p.m.

Macs will be counting heavily on newcomer Jack Lusk and Skip Ward, previously known as Skip Cronk, to pace the clubs floorplay along with veteran Mike Gallo.

Nationals Thrash Drumheller

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's National team coasted to an easy 7-2 victory over defending Allan Cup champions Drumheller Miners Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game before 2,300 fans.

It was the second meeting of the two clubs, Nationals took a 4-3 decision from Miners Saturday in Rosetown, Sask.

The teams played to a 1-1 draw in the first period of the lacklustre contest and Nationals forged ahead 5-2 in the second. The victory gave Nationals a 10-1 record with New York Rangers handing them their only defeat, a 7-0 whitewash Oct. 8.

Rugger Play At Windsor

On Saturday Oak Bay Wanderers clash with Vancouver Trojans in an exhibition match at Windsor Park. Second division play has Cowichan playing host to JBAA, NTS meeting Oak Bay at Colville Road Field; and University Norsemen tangling with Navy at Gordon Head Campus.

Grass Hockey Title to Oaks

Oak Bay finished an outstanding season in inter-high school grasshockey Thursday, defeating second place Esquimalt, 1-0, at Oak Bay.

Sharon Pullin scored the lone goal for Miss B. Hanslip's league champions. Oak Bay won all eight games without giving up a goal.

Cross Country Win for Oaks

Victoria High's Dave Huggett beat teammate Peter Rodseth by 15-seconds Thursday to win a cross country race held with Oak Bay and Mount Douglas.

Oak Bay took the team title in the run.

By Red Smith

A few hours after Buckpasser shrugged off his field in the $110,500 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct, Romeo Hanover paced contemptuously away from his in the $169,885 Messenger Stakes a few miles farther out Long Island at Roosevelt Raceway. The best three-year-old thoroughbred in America and the best three-year-old pacer offer a study in parallels and in contrasts.

For Buckpasser the Gold Cup was his 12th victory in a row. The Messenger was Romeo Hanover's 18th straight. Each lost his first start this year and neither has been whipped since. Buckpasser has earned $1,218,874. Romeo Hanover's bankroll is $473,931. By winning the Messenger on top of the Cane Pace at Yonkers and the Little Brown Jug in Delaware, O., Romeo Hanover became the third horse to take pacing's Triple Crown. A quarter crack suffered in early spring—that's like a bad case of athlete's foot—kept Buckpasser out of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont Stakes, which make up the Triple Crown for thoroughbreds.

Buckpasser was bred by his owner, Ogden Phipps, chairman of the Jockey Club and proprietor of one of the great stables of American racing. Romeo Hanover was bought for $8,500 by five poker players and five mah jongg players, all from Brooklyn or thereabouts.

The success of Buckpasser, a son of the magnificent Tom Fool and the stakes-winning mare Busanda, supports the thoroughbred adage, "Breed the best to the best and hope for the best." The story of Romeo Hanover proves that life can be beautiful even without a weekend at the Concord Hotel in the Catskills.

Poker Players Testimony

The tale of the Lucky Star Stable has appeared here and there, mostly in condensed versions whose details vary. Here is the real story, if it is possible to distill reality from the testimony of five poker players and five mah jongg players:

To start with, there was this floating game every Friday night. It moved around from the home of Mike Goldstein to that of his cousin Milton Goldstein to that of their cousin Seymour Schwartz to that of George Karl to that of Hy Weiner. The Goldsteins and Schwartz run two restaurants, Cousin's and Poppin's, in Brooklyn. Karl operates a beauty parlor. Weiner is an accountant.

The men played poker and the wives played mah jongg. They cut every pot for a kitty which they were building up for a hell of a blast at the Concord. One night in the spring of 1962 the game was in Mike Goldstein's home and he mentioned that a lawyer friend of his, name of Sidney Miles, had a three-year-old filly pacer named Lady Cindy and would sell a half-interest for $2,500.

"That's about what we've got in the kitty," somebody said (it had to be the accountant). "Let's buy. The hell with the Concord." So they did.

They called themselves the Lucky Star Stable because Lady Cindy's trainer, Bill Hudson, never did get all their names straight and called each of them "Lucky." Lady Cindy wasn't great, but she collected enough to get them even for their first season. Naturally, they were hooked.

Horse Never Made Race

That all they got up $10,000 for a two-year-old pacer named Star Shadow and $3,800 for the three-year-old Runnymede Meg. The kitty wasn't doing it for them now; they had to dig. Runnymede Meg never got to the races, but Star Shadow got them even for 1963. By this time they had taken on a new trainer, a skinny, four-eyed 27-year-old from the Bronx who had started out as a fan and had been hooked pretty much as they were.

Jerry Silverman, for the new trainer was indeed he, had an idea that you might get a good horse at a reasonable price if you bought from the first crop of a well-bred but unproved sire. Romeo Hanover was in the first crop by Dancer Hanover, a young but unsound son of Adios, and Romeo was the first colt produced by the young Tar Heel mare Romola Hanover.

Romeo wasn't the group's first choice, however. They had gone to the sale at Harrisburg, Pa., with $12,000 to spend, and they wanted a steed called Texan Hanover. He went for $18,000, too high for them. They bid in a trotter named Lariat Hanover for $3,500, and that left them with the shorts when their second choice, Golden Blend, went for $12,000.

Finally Romeo came up. He had been their third choice. Bill Haughton was bidding against them, but that celebrated trainer-driver was only shopping for a gift for his wife and he backed off when Mrs. Haughton said she didn't really want a chestnut colt for a pet. They got Romeo for the $8,500 they had left.

As it turned out, Texan Hanover won $13,250, then went lame and didn't race this year. Golden Blend, racing mostly in Canada, has picked up a bit more than $70,000. By June of last year Romeo Hanover hadn't got to the races, but when he worked a mile in 2:10 with a final quarter in 30 seconds, a Manhattan accountant named Milton Finder offered to buy him for $30,000.

Meeting at Cousin's restaurant, the poker players voted against throwing in their cards. Instead, they sold Finder a quarter interest for $7,500, recovering all but $1,000 of the purchase price.

Romeo promptly won his first start, and the pot has been growing ever since. The chums never did get to the Concord, though, and they've been too busy counting money to play cards or mah jongg.

Steelers Vie for Trophies

Victoria Steelers of the Pacific Football League take the field for the last time this season Saturday, in the first annual awards game at Macdonald Park.

Three trophies have been donated this year and will be presented during the half-time intermission. The CFAX trophy for the most valuable player is being decided upon by the players themselves.

The lineman of the year award, the Bill Brown trophy, has been donated by the Steelers equipment manager. The Ingraham Hotel trophy has been donated for the outstanding Vancouver Island player.

Choosing the individual winners will be hard as many players have performed strongly in all three categories.

Steelers are ready for the Tacoma Tyees and morale is high as Victoria aims for fourth place, held by Tacoma and Edmonds.

Practices this week have been geared mainly to adapting to the roll out style used by Tacoma's quarterbacks Bob Lite, six feet four inches and 220 pounds from Pacific College and Bob Battermann, six feet and 175-pounds from Pacific Lutheran.

Cookie Wants Cadillac

MIAMI (UPI) — Cookie Gilchrist, the big, speedy and conroversial fullback recently acquired by the Miami Dolphins of the AFL, said today he wants his Cadillac or he's going home.

So Dolphin officials put on their glasses and started taking a long look at Cookie's lucrative contract.

ONE OF THE BEST

Gilchrist, who is conceded to be one of the best runners in the league where his temperament has sent him from Buffalo to Denver to Miami, says his contract calls for a Cadillac. So Cookie went down and ordered the car — more than $5,000 worth — on Wednesday.

Dolphin managing partner Joe Robbie balked. He said he is not so sure about the fancy car although "we intend to observe our contractual obligations."

"Penny wise and pound foolish," said the 255-pound Gilchrist, who warned that he would go home to Canada before the week is out if the Dolphins don't cough up the dough for the car.

"I am not a bargain," said Gilchrist. "I don't come cheap and the Dolphins knew that when they brought me here. Now we're beginning to have difficulties. This is the way it started at Denver and wherever I've had difficulties with management.

"I like Miami and I like the people here and I believe the Dolphins have hired coaches and players of championship calibre. There could be an excellent future here for myself and the club.

"But not if they cut corners with me. I am not that kind of man."

Miami got Cookie recently when Denver, who had not seen his services at all this year due to a fight between the Bronco management and the fullback, put him on waivers. Miami picked up the rest of the tab on Cookie's contract which calls for more than $37,000 a year and fringe benefits.

RENTING CAR

Right now, Cookie is driving a rental car — a Cadillac — at the expense of the Dolphins.

But he says he will either be driving one in his name — also at the Dolphins' expense — soon, or else.

Clair

UBC Gains Big Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — UNC Jayvees downed Vancouver CYO 91-67 Thursday night in an inter-city junior basketball league game.

Sam Vandermeulen led the winners with 19 points, while Rick Inrig added 14. Top man for CYO was Ken Hutchison with 17.

Ottawa's Clair Coach of Year

EDMONTON (CP) — Head coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference has been named Canada's Coach of the Year in a vote by his fellow coaches.

The announcement was made Wednesday at the annual $100-a-plate dinner of Edmonton Eskimos. The Eskimo Alumni Association sponsors the award that carries with it the Annis Stukus Trophy, named for the man who coached the Eskimos when they returned to professional football after the Second World War.

The trophy was accepted on Clair's behalf by Bill McEwen secretary-treasurer of the Rough Rider club.

The trophy was first awarded in 1961 when it was won by Jim Trimble, then head coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Since then winners have been the late Steve Owen, coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders in 1962; Dave Skrein, British Columbia Lions, 1963; Ralph Sazio, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 1964, and Bud Grant, Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1965.

P&O's S.S. Oriana
leaves Honolulu December 7
– 4 days from $230 first class

Ahead of you are five glittering nights and four golden days for an international holiday at sea.

You'll luxuriate in P&O's genial British service. Meet shipmates from every part of the world. Sample international specialties in the dining room. And find more things to do at night than you would in most fair-sized towns.

Or you can just relax. Snooze in a sun-warmed deck chair. Swim. Catch up with your reading. Sleep as late as you please.

EUROPE
18,576 miles

See two-thirds of the world on your way to Europe next March—for as little as $19 a day. Pick out your cabin on P&O's 42,000-ton superliner Oriana, the biggest ship ever built in England. Then set sail from Vancouver March 20, bound for high adventure as you take the new way to Europe.

Ahead of you lie ports of call in California, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Ceylon, Aden, Egypt and the Suez Canal, Italy, France, Gibraltar and England.

For six long weeks you soak up sunshine and abandon yourself to the pleasures of P&O's thoughtful British service. (There is one crewman for every two passengers.) You'll meet fascinating shipmates from the four corners of the world.

P&O's Oriana is one of the "biggest bloomin' ships sailing the seven seas." She's your air-conditioned hotel all the way to Europe. You can swim in one of Oriana's three swimming pools, each with its own outdoor café. Play cricket on deck. Dance. Or just lie back in a deck chair (free, by the way) and relax.

What does it cost? As little as $811 tourist class, $1197 first class. (Note: If you'd like to go round the world with everything taken care of for you, at budget prices, there's a special Ambassador Tour that includes tours of Japan, Paris and London; a transatlantic voyage on the Queen Mary and your flight home all for as little as $1486 for 57 days.) All fares in U.S. currency.

Underworld Elite Find New Dodges

Smugglers Up to New Tricks

Your are wasting your time on hollowed-out shaving bursh handles, but transistor radios and boxes of talcum powder can fool the most experienced snoopers.

* * *

According to Dr. Ferdinand Armand, a noted French psychologist who works part-time as an adviser to the Marseille Customs Office, most honest people do not regard smuggling as an offence.

"It is a sad but true fact that petty larceny is dear to the hearts of most respectable citizens," Armand complained. "People would not consider stealing from their neighbors, employers or strangers. But they delight in stealing taxable revenue from the state."

* * *

Professional smugglers regard themselves as the elite of the underworld. To nab them, Armand advocates looking into their eyes. A trained customs officer can easily spot suspects by checking the size of their pupils. Dilated eye pupils are usually a sign of severe emotional tension or mental strain. The trick is to spot them since different people have different-sized eye pupils.

But it can be done, Armand says, by holding out to incoming passengers two colored cards, in lieu of the regular customs declaration. The green card says, "I have nothing to declare;" the red card, "I have forgotten to declare something."

Tests carried out by Armand show that even veteran smugglers who have trained themselves to control their perspiration, breath, nervous tics and other traditional signs by which officers single out the suspects, have no control over the size of their eye pupils which dilate when they look at the red card.

Other tricks utilized by professional and amateur smugglers were related by Senor Juan Martinez, a Spanish customs officer from Barcelona.

Padded dentures are used by smugglers of gem diamonds, pearls and other precious stones. But modern equipment utilized by customs inspectors put an end to such old-time standbys as double-bottom suitcases, hollowed-out heels, "James Bond" type overnight bags, and the like.

* * *

Gold is being smuggled in the form of dry-cell batteries for portable transistor radios. A transistor can play on only one battery if the inspecting officer flips the switch. The other two or three batteries are four-ounce bars of solid gold, wrapped and painted over to look like standard batteries.

Boxes of talcum powder come in handy for smuggling silver nitrate, currently the hottest item east of Gibraltar. The powdery chemical can be "cooked" in home-made laboratories to separate silver from nitrate — a very powerful explosive used for manufacture of plastic bombs and demolition charges.

* * *

Seamen of westbound ships are still the most popular front men for smugglers of narcotics and smut. Pornographic movies are produced in French, Italian and Greek studios for sale to special rings operating in the United States and Canada, Andreas Papadimitriou of the Greek Customs Authority disclosed.

Stan Delaplane

Tips You Off

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — This is the rum-and-sugar island. Coco palms bending in the warm trade wind. The sea is painter's blue and whipped cream surf piles on the reef.

The little yellow-breasted banana birds work on the breakfast crumbs on the terrace. And in the soft, tropic night, the coqui tree frogs sing — "co-kee! co-kee!"

Spanish is the language. Money, post office and health department are American. (Puerto Rico has an unusual status — it's "associated" with the United States.)

Like all the Caribbean, hotels are priced up pretty high it seems to me. Puerto Rico is urging people to try the cheaper guest houses — and listing them with all travel agents. That IS unusual. You could look into that.

* * *

"We are on a Caribbean cruise after the first of the year and are worried about how to dress . . ."

I've only been on one of these. Seemed to me daytime clothing is informal and resort type: slacks, shorts, aloha shirts. They dress for evening. Women in cocktail dresses. About two-thirds of the men were in tropic tuxedox. But these are so varied now in style and color, you can get the effect with dark trousers and any linen jacket and bow tie.

* * *

"We heard there are mosquitoes in the Caribbean islands. Wonder if an insect repellent is needed."

There are some mosquitoes. But the terrors are little gnats — "no-see-ums." Small enough they fly formation right through screens. However, the season for them is July-August. Better from now on.

Around here they sell a repellent called "6-12." The no-see-ums LOVED it on me. It was like adding steak sauce. They welted me like a waffle. I couldn't get "OFF!" — which works for me in Mexico. (Local people here — and in Hawaii — put a dab of Vick's Vapo-rub on the bite. They say it takes the itch out.)

* * *

"We will be in Europe during the Christmas season. Would you care to recommend something?"

I'd get on a train and head for ski country. Make it a train because it will be full of skiers. And the skiers will be full of grog, mit der Jamaica rum. Plenty accordion music and holiday noise in the dining car.

It's crowded, but I like Kitzbuhel in Austria for Christmas. A walled medieval town. Snowy streets. Red candles burning in holders of green pine. Spend a little coffee time in Praxmair's with the dragon "Tatzelwurm" (who ate only virgins) painted on the back bar.

* * *

The Rivoli is the best restaurant in Mexico City — and one of the top restaurants in the world. It's Continental, not Mexican. But they do a Chicken Chitzenitza with an odd spice from Yucatan you'll remember.

* * *

". . . some place near the sea in Mexico that is off the tourist route?"

A few years ago I stayed in Tecolutla, a sandy, banana town north of Vera Cruz. Couple of hotels advertising "luxury surroundings" and "international cuisine." No tourists. And I think the reason is this was the wackiest operation in Mexico.

The place was run by kids. The desk clerk was about 16. The bartender maybe 13. I made a hero of myself by repairing the bathroom with a Boy Scout knife. The "international cuisine" was beef and beans and red snapper. A dog came over every day and swam with me in the swimming pool. I was the only guest and he was company.

A couple of passing-through fishermen said the fishing was great. You could get oysters opened fresh at a little stand on the river. And I really had fun. Maybe it's changed. I hope not.

* * *

In Amsterdam It's Museums

AMSTERDAM, Holland (CNS) — This prosperous Dutch city probably has more museums than any other place in Europe.

Its most famous is the Rijksmuseum, acknowledged to be one of the greatest art museums in the world. Thousands visit it every year to see its collection of old Dutch masters.

The Rijksmuseum, or National Art Gallery, also houses an excellent cross-section of every art form from the Middle Ages to the 19th century. Its star attraction is Rembrandt's Night Watch, which some experts call the greatest painting of all time.

There are other canvasses by Rembrandt and by Frans Hals, Jan Steen and Johannes Vermeer, among others.

Another artistic showplace here is the Stedelijk Museum, which houses modern art and includes a noted collection of Van Goghs on permanent exhibition. There are more than 200 individual paintings and sketches by this great Dutch impressionist.

Paintings by Picasso, Cezanne, Matisse and Toulouse-Lautrec also are on view in the Stedelijk Museum.

* * *

Still other museums in Amsterdam are devoted to such subjects as shipping, fans, decorative art, the Bible, archaeology, 17th century memorabilia, and Jewish history.

In the Jewish Historical Museum the visitor can see ceremonial religious objects of great splendor, formerly owned by Amsterdam's once-large Jewish population. Amsterdam used to have one of Europe's most thriving Jewish communities, numbering nearly 100,000 persons. Only 10,000 survived the Second World War.

* * *

The house where Roman Catholics prayed in secret services during the Reformation has a complete church hidden away on its upper floors. It is known as the "Our Lord in the Attic" museum. It is virtually a miniature-sized and ornately furnished cathedral, capable of accommodating as many as 200 worshipers.

Another museum is the house where the painter Rembrandt lived and worked. It has been restored to its original condition and has a fine selection of Rembrandt's etchings and drawings.

Road Deaths Soar in U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council has reported that 39,190 persons died on U.S. highways in the first nine months of 1966, an increase of 10 per cent over the first three-quarters of 1965. The council said the U.S. appears headed towards a record number of traffic deaths. Last year's 49,000 total was an all-time high.

Southern California

10 colorful winter sights

Ranches. Two once owned by movie greats, Will Rogers and William S. Hart, are near Los Angeles. See their homes, paddocks and mementos.

Beaches. Collect some seashells, catch a starfish and skipper a skiff. Count passing ships, walk out on a pier, feed a pelican. Or—just sunbathe!

The Races. Thoroughbreds run in winter at a track famous for lavish flower displays. But we also have turtle and ostrich and camel races!

Volcano. Drive to one on the desert and admire its imposing purplish cone. Walk around on lava beds, too. (All our volcanos are retired.)

Superflowers. Geraniums bloom all winter long, and some are taller than you are. Poinsettias soar even higher—like 12 feet.

Man-made river. Bone-dry desert became a checkerboard of rich farms when a great new river was created. See why they now call this area America's Winter Vegetable Garden!

Fantastic Success

Bond Films Put Studios Back in Series Business

By BOB THOMAS

Two and three decades ago, every studio had its series-films with the same characters that could be counted on to bolster the annual product. The most successful was MGM's Hardy family.

The series began in 1937 with You're Only Young Once, which proved so popular that a sequel was ordered. The Hardy films made millions and helped develop such new stars as Lana Turner, Judy Garland, Donna Reed and Esther Williams. The series ended after the Second World War when twice-married Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy seemed too mature to be getting fatherly advice from the old Judge, Lewis Stone.

FANTASTIC

Series films disappeared from the movie scene in the wake of television. The studios reasoned that audiences saw enough continuing characters on the home screen. But intrepid 007 changed that.

The Bond pictures have proved fantastically successful. Variety magazine says domestic rental fees to United Artists have risen successively: Dr. No, $4,655,000; From Russia with Love, $8,400,000; Goldfinger, $19,700,000. The returns from Thunderball are estimated at $25,000,000 from the U.S.; an equal amount is expected from overseas.

FLINT IN

Naturally other studios sought to cash in on the Bondomania. Fox unleashed James Coburn as Our Man Flint, and the results were amazing: an estimated $14,000,000 to $15,000,000 worldwide gross. In Like Flint now has been filmed, and another Flint flick is in the works.

Columbia cast Dean Martin as Matt Helm in The Silencers and Martin happily reports a $9,000,000 gross. He recently completed another Helm epic, Murderer's Row, and a half-dozen more are planned.

DRUMMOND, TOO?

Warner Brothers clicked with Paul Newman's Harper, a throwback to the private-eye dramatics of Humphrey Bogart, Dick Powell, etc. A sequel is in the works.

Universal has brought back Bulldog Drummond with some modern touches in Deadlier than the Male. The movie stars Richard Johnson and may well spark a series.

Peak Pileup Kills Flyers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —Two men were killed when a U.S. Air Force RB-57 crashed near the top of 10,000-foot Sandie mountain northeast of Albuquerque.

The men were identified as Capt. Robert O. Bartlett and Capt. Leo R. Otway, both of Albuquerque.

One Missing In Road Death

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—George Gottfried Erickson, 52, of Prince George was killed in a head-on collision on the Vanderhoof Highway, west of Prince George.

Police were attempting to discover the driver of the other car.

Centennial Projects Defended

More to It Than Money

There's a cheerful side, as well as a gloomy one, to the summing up of accomplishments of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society, co-ordinator Jerry Gosley said Wednesday.

He said recent press reports of the society's monthly meeting, while accurate, presented only the gloomy side of things.

The reports, of necessity, had to do with money. The RCMP Musical Ride lost money. The Emily Carr play lost money. A centennial pageant and other events are planned for 1967. They will also take money and the budget is dwindling.

NOT IDEA

"The idea certainly wasn't to make money. It was to underwrite things we felt were worthwhile," Mr. Gosley said.

"No mention was made of the art and essay contest to encourage children in the area to express and interest themselves in the historical significance of the Centennial, and which the society is underwriting at a cost of $2,500," he said.

IT'S FREE

The Proclamation Day ceremony in Memorial Arena on Nov. 20 will be open to the public without an admission charge.

An old-time dance on Dec. 2, with a fiddlers' contest, is being arranged for senior citizens at no cost to them.

Many sports organizations have been given encouragement and substantial financial assistance. Some of the events were initiated and sponsored by the society.

CARR FARE

The Emily Carr play for one week honored one of the city's greatest artists and generated national publicity. Some schools held their own Emily Carr Weeks. Hundreds of students were invited to the play. The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, overwhelmed by the attendance, stretched its exhibition to three weeks.

Months of negotiations have gone into the organization of an appeal to raise funds to buy the Emily Carr birthplace for preservation.

EVEN PIANO

Other projects include public benches, trails in various natural parks, children's playground equipment, a glassed-in lookout on Dallas Road, a piano for the Retarded Children's Home presented by the Rebekah and Odd Fellow lodges. All these the Centennial Society has been associated with.

Many other projects have been carried out and there are more to come, Mr. Gosley said.

Future events include the Vancouver Opera Association's presentation of Hansel and Gretel on Tuesday, and, at later dates, The Best of Barkerville and the Confederation train.

All sections of the public are being catered for and there are many organizations and individuals working with the society to promote events to suitably celebrate the two centennial years, he said.

Wins Degree

A Victoria man, James Buchan, received his bachelor of arts degree from McMaster University in Hamilton Nov. 4 at convocation exercises.

Prospective candidates for seat on Greater Victoria school board which will be vacated by trustee Lloyd Clarkson, who said Tuesday he will run for office of Victoria alderman in Dec. 10 election, are Daphne Temple, housewife, and Ted Wood, former trustee.

Green Book Grows

The standards of B.C.'s tourist accommodation is high enough that the provincial government was able to give its stamp of approval to 52,755 rental units in 2,040 establishments this year.

John Buckley, assistant director of the B.C. government travel bureau, told delegates to the Provincial Tourist Advisory Council meetings in Vernon Tuesday that this means "more than 100,000 travellers can find provincial government-approved accommodation in B.C. at any one time."

Names of those units approved by the government appear in the Tourist Accommodation Directory, which is commonly known as the Green Book.

Mr. Buckley said the bureau's accommodation counsellors visited all facilities in B.C: this year and that those which did not meet the required standards are not listed in the directory and cannot display the Approved Tourist Accommodation sign issued by the travel bureau.

The Green Book has become so popular that 500,000 copies are printed annually, he said.

Flag Burned

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — About 100 students shouting anti-government and anti-United States slogans burned an American flag Wednesday night during a brief demonstration against Brazil's congressional elections next week. They called the elections a farce.

'Misleading Minority'

Retired Officers Applaud Hellyer

OTTAWA (CP) — Three retired senior officers strongly endorsed the government's plan to unify the three armed forces in statements issued here Thursday night.

Maj.-Gen. Arthur E. Potts of Kingston said unification would have prevented "unnecessary loss of life in Italy" during the Second World War.

A "shocking" lack of co-operation among the three services had reduced efficiency and prevented the dispatch of badly-needed reinforcements to Italy.

Air Vice-Marshal J. A. Sully of Goderich, Ont., in charge of RCAF personnel during the war, said he finds it hard to understand how "any rationally-minded man" could oppose unification. Inter-service jealousies and overlapping were appalling.

Group Capt. K. R. Patrick, president of Canadian Marigot Ltd., Montreal, said Canadians are being misled by "a very small vocal minority" with purely political motives.

The statements were circulated in the parliamentary press gallery as an acrimonious debate on defence raged for the ninth day in the Commons. Conservatives are pressing the government to approve immediate committee hearings on the unification bill introduced a week ago.

General Potts said it is a serious criticism of Canada's political system that one party should use the issue for purely political reasons, without regard to the effect on the armed forces or the country.

Group Capt. Patrick said "thinking Americans" are showing fantastic interest in the unification plan.

"Sitting on the sidelines, it seems to me Parliament is attacking Hellyer more than unification."

Air Vice-Marshal Sully, 74, board chairman of a road grader manufacturing firm, said of Mr. Hellyer:

"He is the first minister who had the guts to tackle the unification of our services, though everyone must have known that something had to be done."

Canada could not afford the wasteful procedure of supporting three separate services for

T. H. Fleetwood Dies

Tom H. Fleetwood, Lethbridge's city treasurer for many years, died here Thursday at the age of 76.

He had lived in Victoria for the past 10 years. Funeral arrangements were to be announced later by Sands Mortuary.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Fred Doherty; a granddaughter, Mrs. Maureen Mooers, and three great-grandchildren of Ottawa; sisters Mrs. Lizzie Glass of Calgary and Mrs. J. A. Donald of Port Alberni.

Mr. Fleetwood was a past master of the Masonic Lodge and for many years a warden at St. Augustine's Anglican Church, Lethbridge.

A three-day visit to Seattle begins today for 54 Victoria Cubs and leaders.

Members of the 4th and 5th Cedar Hill Packs will be exchange-visit guests of Seattle Cub Pack 158. The Seattle pack had attended a weekend camp at the Victoria's Camp Barnard earlier this year as guests of the Cedar Hill groups.

On the agenda for the Victoria Cubs are the Seattle Clamorama, the annual Cub show, and a tour of the science exhibition at the World's Fair grounds.

Young Firefighter Wins Honor Badge

Gary Rolland Kask, 16, of 4402 Columbia Drive, was presented Thursday night with the Canadian Forestry Association's Fire Honor Badge for his assistance in fighting a 70-acre blaze in Mount Douglas Park in September.

The presentation was made to Gary, a Junior Forest Warden, by his adult supervisor, A. H. Bamford, at the club's weekly meeting.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Two Witnesses Under Fire For Testimony

Gerald Meyer, 1139 McClure, was charged with assaulting 72-year-old Edward Galeow of 1015 Princess on the porch of his apartment home at 3:30 a.m. Oct. 23.

Mr. Galeow, his wife Rosalind and a building tenant, Wayne Tyler, testified Meyer had been making considerable noise which they believed to be the sound of beating his girl friend before the assault on Mr. Galeow.

Magistrate Ostler it had been a long time since he had "heard two such unreliable and dishonest witnesses," following the defence evidence.

* * *

A fourth-year University of Victoria student, Kathleen Wendy Tobin, 20, of 2150 Cadboro Bay Road, was remanded to Tuesday on a charge of possession of marijuana.

It is the third remmand for Miss Tobin since her arrest Oct. 29. Bail of $500 continues.

* * *

John Butler of 51 Menzies was fined a total of $50 for being without a driver's licence and insurance.

He told police Aug. 19 when he was stopped that he had never had a licence or insurance, and had only owned the car two weeks.

* * *

A Mill Bay youth with a penchant for the better life was found guilty of fraud and two liquor charges.

Christopher Hutchinson, 19, registered in the Tally-Ho Motel and spent from Nov. 1 to Nov. 7 sleeping and eating there. He was remanded to Nov. 18 for a pre-sentence report.

Hutchinson, who walked out Nov. 7 owing $51.35, told Magistrate Ostler he had intended to pay for his lodging with welfare money.

Hutchinson said he wanted an address so he could join the air force.

* * *

Neil told arresting officers he was emulating Victoria's noted racing driver on Oct. 2 when he went out of control on West Saanich Road near Hartland Avenue, shearing some trees and winding up against an embankment, injuring his three passengers.

Magistrate said his comments upon arrest and his breathalyser test of .12 per cent were somewhat conclusive, fining him $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor and $150 for careless driving.

* * *

Gail Harvey, 16, of 46 South Turner, was sentenced to four months in jail for shoplifting. She had pleaded guilty previously to stealing two purses and 24 pairs of hose.

Magistrate Ostler said, "I dislike intensely sending a young girl like you to jail." He said she appeared to be the product of an "unfortunate environment," and to have a hostile attitude toward authorities.

* * *

Gordon T. Phillips was fined $50 for failure to remain at the scene of an accident and failure to notify the Motor Vehicles branch of a change of address.

Students Will Dab Canada on Canvas

Any student in any school in the Greater Victoria area, in any grade from 1 to 12 inclusive, is eligible.

The four classes are Grades 1 to 3 (Class 1): Grades 4 to 7 (Class 2): Grades 8 to 10 (Class 3): Grades 11 and 12 (Class 4).

BIG REWARD

Sections 3 and 4, open to all except Class 1, have identical prizes of $150, $100 and $50 for Classes 4, 3 and 2 respectively. Thus there is a total of $1,175 up for artistic reward.

Individuality and initiative are valued and appropriateness in expressing the theme, Canada, will receive significant attention from the judges. Ideas have slightly greater value than execution of ideas.

Park Scars To Vanish With Trees

The intermediate section of the Victoria Natural History Society's junior branch will meet at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Douglas and Hillside for a work bee in the park.

Freeman King, who is the young naturalists' group leader, said the first job will be clearing the planting sites so that fall and winter rains will soak into the earth.

When the soil is soaked, it will be ready to accept the Garry oaks, arbutus and Douglas fir which Mr. King plans to plant.

Four Injured In Collision

Four persons were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital after being involved in a two-car collision at Douglas and The Trans Canada Highway shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday. Police identified the drivers as Ian P. Gallipo, 2833 Adelaide, and Barbara Partridge, of Anderson Road, Sooke.

All Areas Honor Fallen

Six Remembrance Day services will be held throughout Greater Victoria today.

- The Cenotaph at the Legislative buildings at 11 a.m.
- Esquimalt Memorial Park at 11 a.m.
- Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Langford, at 11 a.m.
- St. Mary's, Metchosin, at 10:45 a.m.
- Gore Memorial Park at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at 2:30 p.m.
- The War Memorial in Uplands Park at 1 p.m.

Pay Delay

Servants Hardly Civil

For a while Thursday, comments ranging from "what can we do about it?" to "bloody awful mess," were flying among civil servants, when it appeared that pay for some departments would be held up due to the armed forces integration argument.

Merchants also expressed concern.

But the panic was ended by an 11th-hour announcement by Prime Minister Pearson that all wage payments would be met without an interim supply bill having to be passed. The bill is waiting until the House deals with Defence Minister Hellyer's armed forces unification bill.

VARIED REACTIONS

The majority of civil servants questioned either knew they were going to get paid or weren't sure whether or not they would, but those who knew definitely that they wouldn't be paid varied in reaction from resigned to annoyed.

"We are not feeling kindly toward Mr. Hellyer," said one.

'SEEMS SILLY'

"It seems silly that an argument in Ottawa over the armed forces should make a difference in whether or not we get paid," said one young woman.

Ironically, the people that all the row was about, the armed forces, were due to receive their semi-monthly cheques in spite of all the flap about integration that was stalling passage of an interim supply bill.

NOT NEEDED

Said one civil servant: "Of course I'm annoyed — bloody annoyed — but I don't know of a thing I can do about it."

And as it turned out no one had to do anything about it, because after supper Thursday night Mr Pearson made the announcement that will keep federal civil servants solvent — at least until the end of the month.

Shooting Suspect Remanded

Kenneth Wayne Ingram, 25, of Sidney, who faces three charges of attempted murder, has been committed for a further period of observation in a mental institution.

When he appeared in court this week, he was remanded for one month. He was returned to Riverview Hospital.

Ingram was arrested Oct. 9 after a man attacked the RCMP office at Sidney, wounding a jail guard with a .22-calibre rifle. Two other officers were shot at in the early-morning incident.

City to Centennial Society

Request for Funds Bounced Back

By A. H. MURPHY

Victoria council Thursday tossed a request for financial help right back where it came from — to the lap of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

"We have given this society large chunks of money. We have spent thousands and it looks as though there are going to be more and more of these requests," said Ald. Michael Griffin.

(The office of the city treasurer said Thursday that Victoria had given the society $22,684 for "celebrations."

This amounted to 40 cents per capita. Grants based on a similar per-capita basis were received from each of five Greater Victoria municipalities. Total received by the society was about $115,000.)

Breakfast Share

The issue arose when the society asked Victoria to pay a share of an estimated $325 it will cost to provide a buffet breakfast for about 150 newspapermen who will be in Victoria Jan. 9 when the Centennial Confederation Train is launched on its cross-country tour by Prime Minister Pearson.

"Our share of the money is not important," Ald. Griffin added, "but just where these responsibilities are going to be rooted in the future is important. Send it back to them."

At a meeting of the centennial society on Monday the co-ordinator, Gerry Gosley, stated that if the society was forced to pay the full cost of a pageant slated for 1967, $24,000, there would be only $4,000 left for all other activities in the centennial year.

Bid for $24,000

Accordingly the society decided to ask the Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee to back it to the extent of $24,0000. (See story, Page 14.)

This was done in the face of a recent declaration by Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt that his municipality was through contributing to centennal projects.

Reeve Hugh Curtis, at a Saanich council meeting Monday, stated that what this district did not need was an "extravagant extravaganza."

Fireworks

There has been a marked disinclination on the part of Victoria aldermen to support recent centennial proposals, as evidenced by Thursday's action.

The centennial society asked and received permission to hold a fireworks display at Clover Point in connection with Proclamation Day on Sunday, Nov. 20.

The festive day will be climaxed by an inter-church service in Memorial Arena, which will feature a pageant and religious ceremony at which the Lord Mayor of London will read the lesson.

California Lures Bennett

They plan to spend a few days with Newton Steacy, B.C.'s Trade Commissioner in California.

It is believed the premier will then take a brief vacation in Palm Springs. He is expected to be back in B.C. in time to attend the annual meeting of the cabinet at Fort Langley on Nov. 19.

Join Esquimalt?

View Royal District Votes (Again) on Link

A referendum will be held for the second time this year to find out whether residents of the View Royal panhandle want to join the municipality of Esquimalt, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell announced Thursday.

Property-owners in the area will be asked to vote on Dec. 10 whether they want Esquimalt boundary to be extended to include the panhandle.

A referendum for amalgamation with Esquimalt fell 6.8 per cent short of the 60 per cent majority required for approval, when panhandle residents rejected the measure on March 26.

Amid an atmosphere of extreme friction, created by reports that one of the two factions in the area had attempted to pad the voters' list, 98 voters turned out in favor of amalgamation and 86 cast dissenting ballots.

The municipal affairs minister apparently granted a 10-month cooling-off period before putting the matter to a vote again.

Included in the panhandle is the site of the planned Christie Point elementary-junior high school. Greater Victoria School Board last summer tried unsuccessfully to persuade both Saanich and Esquimalt councils to take sewage from the proposed $1,000,000 school.

View Royal has no sewers.

Hook On When Ready

Buildings and ground superintendent A. H. Smith said Thursday that amalgamation and the installation of sewers would make no difference to the school. It will hook onto the line if and when it arrives.

Mr. Campbell said in a press release Thursday:

". . . In consideration of the circumstances in relation to the school it seems appropriate that a further vote should be held to determine whether or not the owner-electors within the area now wish to have their lands included within the boundaries of the municipality.

"It is my intention to direct that a vote be held of the property-owners within the proposed extension area on Dec. 10."

No Acclamation

Woman Seeks Council Seat

The entry of Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie to the Victoria aldermanic election contest Thursday brought the number of candidates seeking four seats to five, and eliminated the possibility of an acclamation.

Mrs. MacKenzie, a housewife active in club and church work in Victoria, has run unsuccessfully for city council on five previous occasions.

Three of the incumbents, Ald. Percy Frampton, Ald. Clyde Savage and Ald. Cecil Parrott, have announced that their names will be on the ballot on Dec. 10 when polling will take place at the Victoria Ballroom, Government Street.

Ald. Michael Griffin, who assumed office after winning the byelection which followed the death of Ald. Austin Curtis, was still undecided Thursday.

However, Trustee Lloyd Clarkson announced Wednesday that he would quit the Greater Victoria School Board and seek a seat on city council.

At a meeting of city council on Thursday the formal bylaws were passed authorizing the election on Dec. 10. City Clerk Morran Waller was appointed returning officer and his assistant, George Merz, deputy returning officer.

Blinking Experiment Works

Research methodology is serious business in University of Victoria's psychology department. Linda Tomczak is subject for student researcher Allan Brett in study of classical conditioning techniques first used by Russian psychologist Pavlov on dogs. After subjects have heard electronic tone similar to radio time signal coupled with simultaneous puff of air to eye, most then blink when tone alone is heard. Thin wire attached to eyelid records blinks. Conditioned response has been extensively studied in relationship to learned fear. More than 40 students are enrolled in experimental course.—(J. J. Households Near Target

The United Appeal Thursday night had 83.6 cents of each dollar needed to run 21 welfare and services agencies in the Greater Victoria area next year.

The Community Chest campaign had collected $378,865 of its $452,000 objective, which means it still needs 16.4 cents of each dollar.

Troubled Ship Passes Sea Trials

The trouble-plagued but photogenic weathership Vancouver made an honorable entrance into Esquimalt Harbor Thursday after three days of completely successful trials.

"She was taken out on the 100 fathom line to look for rough weather," said district marine agent Larry Slaght. They ran into 11-foot waves and were impressed with the Vancouver's stability."

He said on weather station Papa where the $12,000,000 ship would go on duty waves 50 feet high were sometimes encountered. "But if the stability curve continues as it did during trials she will get along fine."

FLARE TEST

The patented flume stabilizer system is to keep the ship as nearly as possible even and steady during rough weather.

Also tested was a new weapon for firing flares to be used in case of an aircraft ditching. The test included lighting up the sea and laying a flare path.

GENERATOR OUT

Prior to that a shaft on one of her four generators, which keep the ship in power, was out of line and the other three generators were torn down and checked while a spare shaft was being shipped.

Trouble first started for the Vancouver at her launching ceremony in June when a holding bolt snapped at Burrard Drydock and she started toward the water.

The presiding padre snapped off a quick prayer and she was chased with a champagne bottle to be christened.

BALLAST ADDED

Next, a change in equipment on the ship's topside made it necessary to add tons of ballast below decks to keep her from being top-heavy.

Now all that remains to be brought into line is the ship's balloon tracking radar and accompanying computer system.

Then, with fingers crossed, officials will wave goodbye as she sails into the sunset bound for Hawaii and a three-week shakedown cruise.

Back in Victoria victualling will begin in earnest and if all is well she leaves in January on her first stint 800 miles out on the Pacific on weather station Papa.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I read a letter in your column from a mother who was worried about her soldier son. The mother had not heard from him in several weeks and she telephoned his girl friend to learn if she had heard anything.

My sister had a similar problem. Her oldest boy joined the Marines. She had not received a letter from him in more than three months. Although he was not in a foreign country she was terribly worried that perhaps he was ill or that he had had an accident. So she wrote to her Congressman. The Congressman responded as follows.

"Dear Mrs.—: Our office has contacted your son's commanding officer. We have been informed he was discharged four weeks ago."

What kind of a lousy government is it that doesn't even let a mother know when her son is being discharged from the service? Please answer me in the newspaper. I want the whole world to see it. — THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED CITIZEN

Dear Citizen: What kind of a lousy son would be discharged from the service for four weeks and not let his mother know? Please answer me so I can print your reply in the newspaper. I'd like the whole world to see it.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has requested that I write to you about something that has him so burned up his hand is not steady enough to hold a pen.

It so happens my husband is a very good speaker and is called on often to be the master of ceremonies at civic and fraternal affairs. A couple of months ago he was the main speaker at a small club dinner — quite private. He was in top form and told some extremely funny stories. Everyone said he was terrific.

Last night he was the featured speaker at an important dinner, one he had been planning on for many months. The man who introduced him had attended the small club dinner and apparently he had written down my husband's jokes because he used every one of them before my husband got up to speak.

It was a nightmare. My husband couldn't think of anything to say and he had no time to come up with new stories. He really was a horrible flop. Today he is depressed and furious. What is your opinion of a person who would pull such a dirty trick? What can a creative person do to protect himself against this sort of dishonesty? — SYMPATHETIC WIFE

Dear Wife: If I knew of a way to stop idea thieves I'd use it myself.

A writer is virtually helpless unless he can prove plagiarism which is not easy. A speaker can always have some spare anecdotes up his sleeve — and he'd better have them for just such emergencies as you described.

Confidential to A Counsellor Who Needs Counselling: It does not necessarily follow that a person who has knowledge and training will apply it to his own life. (Witness the number of physicians who are grossly overweight, and smoke and drink excessively.) I know of no substitute for self-acceptance and self-discipline. Discuss your true feeling with someone who can guide you. You were a human being before you were a counsellor.

The emphasis is on pink. If you want to please a young lady, try a feminine pink color scheme for her bedroom. The new pinks range from the palest to deep hot shades. They combine together in the same room, or are used with cooling accents of green and blue. Here, green felt valances frame the windows and conceal roller shades in each window. Pink-and-white ticking is used to cover both of the bed frames and is found again on the quilted spreads. Pillows store in the hollow core bolsters. A pull-up stool features a deep pink velvet cushion—a real luxury touch that can be adapted for little cost. (Better Homes and Gardens)

Watt-McEwan

Duncan Wedding

CHEMAINUS, B.C. — St. Andrews' Presbyterian Church, Duncan, was the setting for the marriage of Valerie Heather, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McEwan, Chemainus, and James Fredrick Watt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Watt, Westholme, Rev. R. MacMillan performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with tall baskets of Marguerites, daisies and bronze and gold chrysanthemums and guest pews were marked by pink and white bows.

Maid of honor, Miss Arlene Hopkins, Bella Bella, wore a floor-length, empire styled gown with yellow lace bodice and white net over taffeta skirt, while the bridesmaids Miss Evelyn Hols, and Miss Margaret McEwan, sister of the bride, were attired in street-length dresses of yellow net over nylon sheer, with lace bodices. Attendant's bouquets were cascades of yellow roses and white carnations and their headpieces were of yellow flowers and net.

Gary Munroe of Ladysmith was best man and ushers were George Watt, Bill Latkin, both of Duncan and Richard Simmonds, Chemainus.

The wedding music was played by Mr. R. McEwan, Duncan.

The reception was held in the Crofton Hall, where nearly 100 guests sat down to the wedding supper. On the bride's table was the wedding cake decorated by Mrs. Walter Stanbrook of Nanaimo.

Toast to the bride was given by Mr. Michael Thomas, and the best man read telegrams from the bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. E. Rutherford and her aunt Mrs. Helen McLeod, both of Ontario.

Concert Nov. 20

Plans were finalized for the next concert which will take place on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, in the McPherson Theatre and will feature Eleanor Duff, contralto, with Mrs. Mary Wood her accompanist, and dancers from the Wynne Shaw Dance Studio.

Plans were also discussed for the Carol Tea on Dec. 10 in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel. The members were advised that Mrs. Pearcy's "Wee Folk" choir will sing Christmas hymns and carols at this popular event.

Raises $350

Dr. G. H. Holmes received the guests and introduced Miss Helen Dean, Mrs. L. E. Harris, Mrs. E. Showers, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher and Mrs. D. Preddie. These five ladies who are all over 80 years of age were presented with corsages by the Branch president, Mr. Goddard.

The general convener of this popular event was Mrs. E. Thacker. The sum of $350 was raised.

Those in charge of the various stalls which did a brisk business were, home baking, Mrs. F. Westcott and Mrs. R. Rutter; fancy work and knitted goods, Mrs. E. Barber and Mrs. A. Ashby; Elyse marmalade and novelties, Mrs. E. Thacker and Mrs. C. Edwards.

Tea conveners were Mrs. B. Krebs, Mrs. F. Hayward, Mrs. S. Kitchener, Mrs. S. Clairbourne and Mrs. G. Parkes.

Mrs. Nels Westin was at the door and selling poppies for the Legion was Mrs. H. Saunders.

Mrs. E. Sampson was in charge of the draw tickets and Mrs. F. Westcott drew the lucky tickets. Mrs. B. Krebs was the lucky winner on the Wheel Barrow filled to the brim with groceries. The doll donated by Mrs. Krebs was won by Mrs. E. Lacy.

Fete Nets $1,460 For Church

Blustery, cool winds had no ill effect on the success of the annual bazaar of the Queen of Peace Catholic Women's League, held in the parish hall. Hundreds turned out for the affair and raised $1,460.

Guests arrived, to be greeted by president Mrs. M. Kolran and Father M. J. McNamara in a hall that was bright with arrangements of fall flowers and brilliantly decorated stalls. The event was opened by Father Lewis McLellan.

Among the special guests were the presidents of St. Andrew's Catholic Women's League, St. Patrick's Catholic Women's League and members of the Esquimalt United Church.

Mrs. N. Hall and Mrs. P. Slaney, assisted by Mrs. P. C. Shaw, Mrs. M. Minter and Mrs. H. McGee, convened a well-patronized needlework stall while Mrs. R. Stirling was in charge of the novelty stall, assisted by Mrs. N. Dickie and Mrs. A. Dickie.

Home baking stall was convened by Mrs. C. D. Macklin, Mrs. E. DeCosta and Mrs. J. Sharpe, Candy was sold by Mrs. H. Kallrath, assisted by Mrs. C. Praud.

A stall of religious articles was presented for the first time this year, being arranged by Mrs. W. Edgington. Mrs. G. Malenfant, Mrs. E. Barnabe and Mrs. H. Jordens were in charge of the Lucky Seven stall.

The youngsters of the parish took turns in running a fish pond and a white elephant stall was managed by Mrs. J. Comerford, Mrs. J. McLaughlin, Mrs. J. Warburton and Mrs. A. Bethel.

One of the happiest people at the affair was Mona Jewell, who won the large-sized doll which had been exquisitely dressed and raffled by Mrs. J. Freer.

During the afternoon a delectable tea was served to the many guests. Co-conveners Mrs. J. Pryke, Mrs. S. Rosendaal and Mrs. H. Wakelin were assisted by a large committee while the young girls of the parish "pitched in" to act as serviteurs.

Mrs. A. Smith handled tea receipts and Mrs. R. Stirling, tombola tickets.

Rounding out the day's activities, the men of the parish ran bingo games in the evening. Refreshments were also served.

Grandmother's Topaz For Something Old

Her grandmother's topaz brooch, set in silver filigree, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Susan Jane Begg, when she exchanged marriage vows with Trevor Weston Hughes.

The brooch was the only jewelry accent to the bride's gown of peau de soie, "something borrowed" from her sister, Mrs. Patrick Thody. The empire-line bodice was fashioned of hand-beaded French lace, which was echoed in appliques on the train. A coronet of rhinestones and pearls held her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion net and she carried red roses and ivy in her cascade bouquet.

Arrangements of multicolored chrysanthemums decorated Belmont United Church when Rev. Murray Henderson heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Begg, 2742 Scott Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell W. Hughes, 4050 Saanich Road. Mr. Begg gave his daughter in marriage.

Short-length gowns of pale turquoise brocade, styled with belled skirts, were worn by matron of honor Mrs. Thody and bridesmaid, Miss Darlene Young. Their bow headpieces were en tone and they carried colonial bouquets of white carnations, centred with turquoise.

Best man was Alan Thom. Ushering the guests to their pews were the brothers of the principals, Gilbert Hughes and Wayne Begg.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver, the new Mrs. Hughes donned a two-piece English tweed walking suit of blended blue and green tones. Complementing the outfit were a white fur hat and collar, black patent accessories and yellow orchid corsage.

Travelling from out of town for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Tuck of Denman Island, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Towbotham of Calgary.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Bennett received the names Dale Ronald at a baptismal service in St. Columba Church. Rev. John Vickers officiated at the ceremony. Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Harris and Mr. Ken Oliver. Dale is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bennett, Mrs. Preece and the late Mr. W. R. Preece. Michelle and Sharon, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gale, were also christened at the ceremony. A tea followed at the Alexander Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Bennett.

Couple Spends Honeymoon In Jamaica and Nassau

Mr. and Mrs. William Richmond Gilbert will make their home in Vancouver on return from a honeymoon spent in New York, Jamaica, Nassau, and Halifax, N.S.

Father A. E. Leonard officiated at the recent ceremony in St. Patrick's Church uniting in marriage the former Genevieve Carol Reichert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Reichert, 2781 Musgrave Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Gilbert, Halifax, N.S.

Decorating the church were arrangements of anthurium, orchids and pikake leis sent for the wedding by Mr. and Mrs. David Naone Jr. of Kailua, Oahu, Hawaii.

Mrs. R. Gill was organist.

* * *

Given in marriage by her father the bride was lovely in a sheath gown of white wool and silk imported from France. The exquisite gown featured a sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves and a French lace, mantilla style veil fell gracefully to the floor from a crown. The bride's only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift from her father. She carried a bouquet of white roses and ivy.

Miss Marilyn Reichert was maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Helen Kardas and Mrs. W. H. White, both of Vancouver, were bridesmaid and bridesmatron respectively. They were dressed in A-line, floor-length gowns, robin's egg blue peau d'elegance, styled with scooped neckline and self-tie belts. Their headdresses were matching fabric rosettes and veils en tone. They carried crescent bouquets of white chrysanthemums and ivy.

* * *

Mr. Robert Toye, Vancouver, was best man and ushering were Mr. Glen Guilbault, Vancouver, and Mr. Ronald Magrath, New Westminster.

A reception followed at the Tally-Ho Travel Lodge. White roses in a silver bud vase topped the three-tiered cake centering the bride's table. Cmdr. Ernest Bell, RCN, (retired) recently of Halifax, proposed the toast to the bride.

* * *

For travelling the new Mrs. Gilbert chose a white brocade suit and white mink pill box hat. Her accessories were black patent and she wore a pikake lei from Hawaii.

Travelling from Halifax for the wedding was the groom's mother. Other out-of-town guests were, Mrs. K. Dimoff, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Payne, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White, Miss Pamela Codling, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bradbury, Mr. and Mrs. J. Matheson, Mr. G. Guilbault, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Garrett, Mr. Richard Currie, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Connor, Cmdr. and Mrs. Bell, Mr. James Reichert, all of Vancouver; Mr. Val George and Miss Ella Mae Connor, Nelson, B.C.

First Baptist Plans Remembrance Rites

Sunday will be observed as Remembrance Sunday in First Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. John A. Watson, announced Thursday.

"We ought to remember with gratitude the sacrifice paid for us," he said. "We must remember the fallen also with sorrow and tears. Not only with sorrow that we have lost them. If that is all we do, we soon fall into self-pity and end up by not remembering them at all.

"We must remember a higher and loftier sorrow than that. We must remember the sins that made their death inevitable and alow the Word of God to open our eyes to the real warfare in which we are engaged."

Mr. Watson's sermon at the morning service will be on this topic, The Real Warfare. It will be based on Ephesians 6. "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil."

Arthur Jackman will sing In Flanders Fields.

In the evening, the sermon will deal with the meaning of true patriotism. It is entitled A Nation Under God.

Eleven new members will be initiated into the Canadian Girls In Training organization at the 7:30 p.m. service Sunday in Metropolitan Church.

Rev. E. Laura Butler will speak on the CGIT theme, My Life For Christ, and Mrs. Keith Henderson, superintendent of the girls' organization, will conduct the initiation. The scripture lesson will be read by CGIT president Mary Titerle. Mrs. Harold Robinson will sing Prayer of the Norwegian Child by Kountz.

The girls being initiated are Carol Whittaker, Lyn St. Hilaire, Virginia Knight, Cheryl Bootsman, Cynthia Bloomberg, Bonnie Roberts, Terry Wright, Linda Bowcott, Maria Kwong, Janet Wright and Kathy Merriman.

At the 11 a.m. family service, Rev. Albert E. King will preach on Challenge and Achievement.

Curator of anthropology at the provincial museum, Donald Abbott will speak on The Indian Question at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday in The Unitarian Church of Victoria, 106 Superior. He will give the talk again at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Mr. Abbott will discuss the relationship between Indian and non-Indian in B.C. and the aspirations of the Indians.

He feels that people talk about the Indian question without being aware of its ramifications.

Mr. Abbott is a graduate of UBC. He studied at the Institute of Archaeology in London from 1958 to 1960.

The declaration of the Apostle Paul, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you," is the golden text of the lesson-sermon Mortals and Immortals in Vancouver Island Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Related readings from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"The manifestation of God through Mortals is as light passing through the window-pane. The light and the glass never mingle, but as matter, the glass is less opaque than the walls. The mortal mind through which Truth appears most vividly is that one which has lost much materiality — much error — in order to become a better transparency for Truth. Then, like a cloud melting into thin vapor, it no longer hides the sun."

Religion Displays Expo Science

A man from the Sermons From Science pavilion at Expo 67 will give a lecture with motion pictures at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Central Baptist Church.

An estimated 30,000,000 persons will visit the fair. Many will see the demonstrations and films of the Moody Institute of Science of Los Angeles, Calif.

SPECIAL EVENTS

With a stage full of special laboratory equipment the wonders of science are translated in terms of spiritual reality. Visitors will see such things as the cry that can shatter glass, a frozen shadow, a flashlight that talks, the stammering machine, metal rings floating in air, 1,000,000 volts of lightning, and other demonstrations.

The program was on exhibition at the Seattle Exposition in 1962 and at the New York World's Fair last year.

Outspoken Critic Here Sunday

An outspoken critic of the New Curriculum series of Sunday School lessons, produced for use in United and Baptist churches, will be guest speaker at Central Baptist Church at both services this Sunday. He is Dr. W. Gordon Brown, dean of Central Baptist Seminary, Toronto.

Dr. Brown has written for both secular and religious publications. The educator is academic head of the Toronto school, the largest Baptist training centre in Canada. He completes his 40th year of teaching this year.

Garden Notes

Tame Horseradish

By M. V. CHESNUT

The other day, while answering a letter from a reader asking how she could eradicate horseradish from her garden, I had a flashback of memory to a boyhood scene. I must have been about 10 years old and was cranking the meat grinder for my mother as we put horseradish roots through it for her year's supply of creamed horseradish. Both of us had tears streaming down our faces, for horseradish can be considerably more pungent than any onion.

* * *

Because horseradish will grow anywhere, even in the wild it usually gets the short end of the stick in our gardening operations. This is a mistake for, when it is allowed to go its own way, it becomes a weedy mat, invading other parts of the garden and producing twisted, distorted roots which are stringy in texture and very bitter in flavor. Proper care means stout, straight roots which are easy to put through the grinder, and its flavor is sweet and palatable in spite of its pungent heat.

Annual overhauling should be the rule with horseradish and, since the plants are completely winter-hardy, this is a good time to get the job done, so the roots have time to get themselves established before hard weather sets in. Making over the horseradish patch can be done in the spring, but the soil is usually pretty wet after the winter rains and half the bed will come up in a muddy mass along with the root. This isn't good for, if you leave even one tiny piece of root unlifted, it will spread and sprout in every direction the following year. Lifted while the soil is still reasonably dry, the roots can be forked out cleanly and all in one piece.

After the plants are up, they can be divided into pieces, each with a single crown, discarding the oldest woody portions. The tops of the roots are then sliced off, leaving just sticks of roots about nine inches long. If more than one growth bud or "eye" can be seen in any one piece or root, the surplus buds should be nipped out to encourage the production of thick straight sticks next season.

* * *

Even though horseradish will escape from cultivation and establish itself in the wild, you can't produce palatable, flavorsome roots from poor soil. So, while the roots are out of the ground, the bed should be dug over and enriched.

One bucketful of very old rotted manure or ripe compost plus half a cupful of superphosphate per square yard will work wonders, but these additives must be thoroughly and intimately mixed with the soil all the way down to the full depth of your spade. With this done, the bed should be rolled or trodden, for horseradish detests loose, spongy soil.

* * *

The selected roots are planted straight up and down, and it is important to get them right side up; for this reason it is customary to market the roots in some way while trimming and preparing them, usually by cutting the top of the root straight across and the bottom with a slanting cut. In planting, space the roots 12 inches apart each way and with one inch of soil over the top.

If most of the roots dug up are required for grinding, the one selected for replanting can be made to go further by splitting them lengthwise with a sharp knife before setting them in the ground. Each piece, of course, must have a growth bud or eye.

JACK SMITH Mourns the Pink Lady

Philistines Get Their Girl

The Philistines have won again. The Pink Lady of Malibu Canyon has been destroyed.

The sun rose and set only a few times on this buoyant creature before the bureaucrats erased her.

Fifty feet high, voluptuous of flesh and spirit and pink as the rose, she briefly graced the rough stone wall above a tunnel on Malibu Canyon road near Los Angles.

Who painter her there, or how, is not known, but the Pink Lady was obviously the offspring of a creative and playful spirit with courage, determination and energy.

* * *

Grafitti, which the dictionary defines as "rude inscriptions, drawings, or the like, found on rocks and walls," are among the most despicable works of man.

Obscenity is a name scrawled on a mountain, whether it is Kilroy or Jesus. Some of our most pleasant drives are booby-trapped with these anonymous scratchings, made almost impassable by a web of vain desecrations, the public notices of the unnoticed.

* * *

But now and then some obscure unfettered soul makes a mark of heroic concept on the earth and leaves something of value. Primitive man told his story in the graceful Grafitti of the caves. Some Persian artist-historian immortalized Darius and Xerxes with heroic carvings on the cliffs of Persepolis.

Perhaps the Pink Lady would not have served the future. She documented nothing, preached nothing. She was just there — joyous and free. Everyone who saw her was infected. Yet there was a touch of fear in her eyes, as if she knew they were coming for her.

She was compared by some who saw her with the hippy nudes of Rubens and Renoir. Others saw the draftsmanship and effervescence of Matisse or Picasso.

I stood in the road and studied her the other morning, as the troops of the Philistines were planning their clumsy assault, and I thought I saw the spirit of Thurber in her, too.

* * *

She was a sister of that Thurber female who was surprised by a clergyman at her revels among the wildflowers. Like the Pink Lady, she clutches a nosegay in one hand, and like the Pink Lady she looks abandoned and carefree, but somehow vulnerable.

She looks up insouciantly into the prim but uncertain face of the minister and tells him, "There's no use you trying to save me, my good man."

* * *

No, they couldn't save the Pink Lady either, so they condemned her. No room for free souls in a bureaucracy. As always, the deed was done behind a plausible excuse. She was obviously a witch, a hazard to motorists.

So she is gone — only a ghost — behind her cover of sickly paint. But the main purpose of our society has been served: traffic is moving in a normal manner.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Natalie at Crossroads

LONDON (NANA) — Natalie Wood visited a friend of mine in London and told him, "I am going to marry Richard Gregson (the agent)." Followed by chit-chat about giving up her career. When he refused to believe either world-shattering item, she called her new agent in Hollywood and repeated the conversation, telling him what a good British 10 percenter Gregson was and how much she loved him, etc., etc. Whereupon the executive in Hollywood, who has a sense of humor, told Natalie, "I'm not sure whether I'm losing a client or gaining an agent." I would say neither. Natalie is so impulsive. She often wants to get married or give up her career when things are going badly. Her last three films received poor reviews.

* * *

I had an after-theatre bite with Jacqueline Susann and her husband at the White Elephant, and the authoress of the No. 1 best-seller in the U.S. told me she will be playing a cameo role in the movie version of Valley of the Dolls. Apparently, Bette Davis is mad keen to play one of the pill-taking ladies. Nothing will be decided until the script is completed.

* * *

I was strolling along in the sunshine on the Brighton seafront when whom should I spy but Richard Harris and his astrologer friend, Patrick Walker. Regarding the divorce proceedings of his wife in the London courts, Richard assured me he will not fight it.

* * *

A call from Marlene Dietrich's daughter, Maria, to invite me to mom's one-woman show at Golder's Green. I went, I saw and I was completely conquered — as usual. The last time was at the Cafe de Paris, about five years ago, when Noel Coward introduced "the lovely, legendary Marlene" . . . Sean Connery did a fast change of plans, and instead of flying to the States, he flew to the south of France for a much-needed vacation before resuming at Pinewood in his film for Lewis Gilbert.

* * *

The shortest mini-skirt in London — a leopard thing almost up to the hips of 15-year-old Romina Power, strolling with mother Linda Christian and younger sister Taryn in the autumn sunshine on Park Lane. These ultra-short skirts are not attractive. It would be better to wear tights and dispense with the three or four inches of so-called skirt.

* * *

Laurence Harvey will be in Hollywood with Joan Cohn for Christmas and New Year. He has two projects to complete before the end of the year. "Seven Arts is filming my play, A Winter's Tale, in the same way that Othello was done," said Larry. "Then," he continued, "I'm doing Dial M for Murder with Leslie Caron for David Susskind." A TV special. In January, Larry will star in Anthony Mann's production of A Dandy in Aspic in London and Germany.

* * *

Julie Christie will make her first film in California in January. But not in Hollywood. In San Francisco. For Warners — the Richard Lester production of Me and the Arch Kook Petula. "I'm very excited about seeing San Francisco," said Julie on the set of her current Far From the Madding Crowd. "When I was in Hollywood, it was all for Dr. Zhivago, and I was too busy to do anything else." Lester, a Philadelphian who settled in London, directed the two Beatle pictures. Also Zero Mostel, Phil Silvers, etc. in A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

ERMA BOMBECK a TV Martyr

Soup Opera Counterpoint

Can a woman television viewer over 35 find happiness with a man who whips in and out of the living room like a yo-yo and with each visit wants to know, "What did I miss?"

I don't expect an on-the-spot answer. After all, the success or failure of a 17-year-old marriage hinges on your decision. Read the dialogue and reserve your judgment until the end of the column.

* * *

He: What program is this?

She: Peyton Place. Shhhh.

He: I can't make head nor tail out of this thing. Just a lot of misery. You women get some kind of a vicarious thrill out of suffering. What ever happened to the one who cut her hair? I suppose someone shoved her off a cliff, too.

She: Be still. She married Frank Sinatra.

He: She should have held out for the cliff. I'm surprised he's on this show. Don't tell me they got him doing lube jobs in Rod's garage. There's the phone. I'll get it. It's probably for me.

* * *

He: (Four minutes later) What happened? Who's in the hospital now? If that hospital burned down, Peyton Place would be a ghost town. People run in and out of there like a . . . Who's that?

* * *

She: Stephen's wife, Betty.

He: I thought she was Rod's wife. Isn't she the one whose father popped his cork and thought he was back in a bunker in the Second World War? And her mother was living it up behind the filing cabinets with the boss? Or is she the one whose mother just married the town convict who fathered her illegitimate child who now runs the town newspaper while she runs the book store? You want anything while I'm up?

* * *

He: (Four minutes later) You know, I don't know how you can make head nor tail out of this thing. That fella gargling the mouthwash. I've never seen him before. Is he on trial for something?

She: That's the commercial.

He: Oh. I got time to put on my robe. (Four minutes later) What did I miss? Who's that old dragon? Is she married to the guy in the wheelchair?

* * *

He: So, she's an art critic! Where's the father of the little deaf girl who witnessed the murder on the warf? Or am I thinking of the father of the girl who married Norman whose mother-in-law runs a bar? I swear, I can't make head nor tail out of these things."

Come to a decision? Good. Now, those of you who think I should be awarded custody of the televison set, clap your hands.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GILLAN—In loving memory of our nephew and grandson, Douglas Gillan, who passed away suddenly Nov. 11, 1964.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, Dear Douglas.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But little they know the sorrow
Within our hearts concealed.
—Lovingly remembered by his Aunt Marian, John, and Grandmother Effie Zaprank.

GILLAN—In loving memory of our son, Douglas Gillan, who passed away suddenly Nov. 11, 1964.
Two years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved so dearly was called away.
God took him home above, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
How strange he should sleep so profoundly,
So young, so unworn by the strife,
While beside him, brimful of hope's nectar,
Untouched stood the goblet of life.
God knew all about it, how noble,
How gentle he was and how brave,
How bright his possible future,
Yet put him to sleep in his grave.
God knew all about those who dearly love him,
How bitter the trial must be,
And right through it all God is loving
And knows so much better than we.
— Lovingly remembered by his Mother and Dad and Brother Paul.

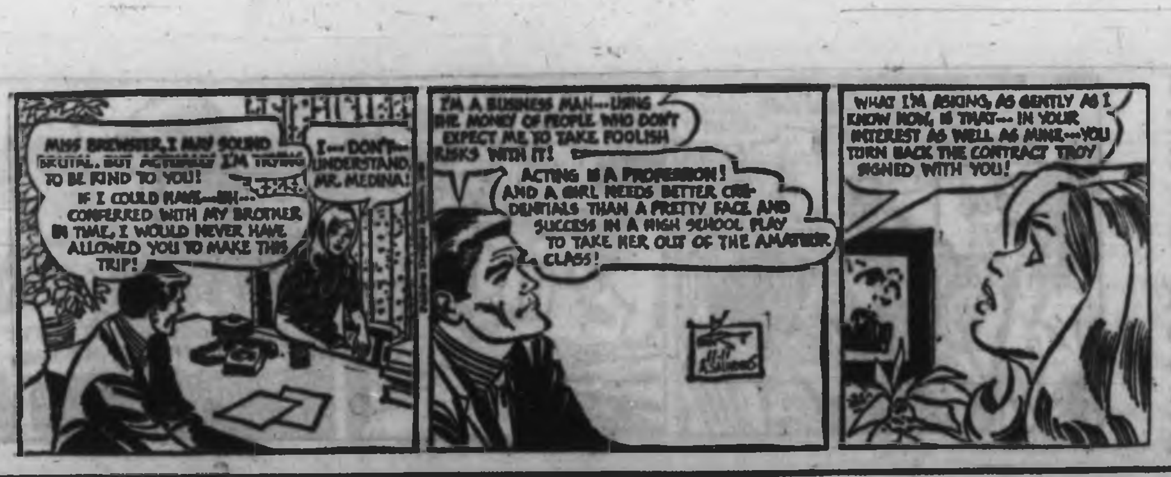
MARY WORTH



MISS BREWSTER, I MAY SOUND BRUTAL, BUT ACTUALLY I'M TRYING TO BE KIND TO YOU!
IF I COULD HAVE—UH—CONFERRED WITH MY BROTHER IN TIME, I WOULD NEVER HAVE ALLOWED YOU TO MAKE THIS TRIP!
I—DON'T—UNDERSTAND, MR. MEDINA!
I'M A BUSINESS MAN—USING THE MONEY OF PEOPLE WHO DON'T EXPECT ME TO TAKE FOOLISH RISKS WITH IT!
ACTING IS A PROFESSION! AND A GIRL NEEDS BETTER CREDENTIALS THAN A PRETTY FACE AND SUCCESS IN A HIGH SCHOOL PLAY TO TAKE HER OUT OF THE AMATEUR CLASS!
WHAT I'M ASKING, AS GENTLY AS I KNOW HOW, IS THAT—IN YOUR INTEREST AS WELL AS MINE—YOU TURN BACK THE CONTRACT TROY SIGNED WITH YOU!

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Do you know how to take a finesse? Don't be annoyed by this saucy question — try your luck on this slam contract, because when we saw it played it stymied an expert.

When this deal came up in a team-of-four game, North elected to respond two clubs, bending the "unbreakable" rule that you need 10 points to bid a suit at the two-level. Now there was no holding South, who galloped into six spades. West opened the diamond king and everything depended on declarer's timing of the play.

Vul: Both

NORTH
♠ J 9
♡ 8 6 5

WEST
♠ 8
♡ A 9 7 4
◇ K Q 8 7 6

EAST
♠ 10 6 5
♡ J 3 2
◇ J 10 9 4
♣ K 8 2

SOUTH (D)
♠ A K Q 7 4 3 2
◇ A
♣ 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ◇	Pass
6 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond king

South could see no subtleties in the deal. Having won the diamond opening, he decided that the slam depended entirely on the location of the club king. So he pulled trumps and finessed clubs. Now it was easy for East, whose partner had signalled violently on the second round of trumps, to return a heart and sink the slam.

At the other table, declarer showed that there can be a right and a wrong way to take even a "baby" finesse. Having won the diamond, South did not pull even a single round of trumps. Instead, he played a club. The difference was that, having won the king, East could not be sure of the best return, for West had no chance to signal. After some dithering, East returned a diamond and the slam came home, for after drawing trumps South was able to ditch three hearts on the long clubs.

LANGFORD
Fifteen houses in this area, presently occupied by tenants, now being offered for sale. These are nearly all three-bedroom houses. Several are only a year or two old. None have basements, but most have Oil-o-Matic heating, plumbing for automatic washers and wiring for electric range and dryer, paved driveways, carports.
Taxes are low! (In most cases only $25-$60 a year to the owner.) Best of all, only $1,000 down and the balance like rent. No mortgages to raise or commissions to pay. All financing arranged for you. Only one payment to make. These are certainly not mansions, but good comfortable family homes, particularly suited to a young family starting out. Most prices range from $10,400-$12,400. Some older houses are even less.
We will be happy to arrange to show you these houses by appointment.
If you wish to drive past them first we will mail you a list showing the addresses and prices. (Please do not disturb the tenants.) Simply call 478-4446 or 478-4116 and leave your name and address. No one will call on you unless requested.

IMAGINE — 6 STOREYS HIGH
APPROX. 110,000 OFFICE SPACE
In Part or Parcel

Let us help you, as an investor, organize the construction of a new 6-storey commercial and office, medical-dental building or motel. So central, this land, nearly 19,000 sq. ft., allows 100% site coverage and is at Humber Green. Recent traffic counts indicate in excess of 30,000 cars pass or stop at this corner (have you ever waited for 3 minutes for that light to change? Imagine the eye impact of any facia signs!). Really, an imaginative investor syndicate should sincerely enquire about this site. MR. MOORE or MR. WILLS are available for securing leases. Incidentally, the two properties involved can be bought for a holding, with income from the two houses and business lot. Asking $29,500 and $39,500 respectively. 388-4271.

Viet Force Could Hit 500,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. defence department officials have conceded that the number of American fighting men in the Viet Nam war may swell to 500,000 by the end of 1967.

In reply to questions from United Press International, a Pentagon spokesman said that Defence Secretary McNamara did not rule out this buildup in a weekend statement at President Johnson's Texas ranch.

At Grass-Roots, Too

Negroes Break Through To Win U.S. Positions

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro candidates made major breakthroughs in the U.S. elections this week, a national survey showed Thursday. In some states a political color bar was breached for the first time in history.

Most prominent of the Negro winners was Republican Edward A. Brooke of Massachusetts, the first of his race elected to the U.S. Senate in 85 years.

Perhaps more significantly, Negroes across the U.S. chalked up big gains at the grass-roots level, winning election to such posts as county commissioner, circuit court clerk and board of education member.

BOTH PARTIES

Some ran as Democrats, some as Republicans.

There were areas where redistricting made Negro victories, particularly in state legislative contests, a foregone conclusion, since members of their race dominated the voting lists.

Elsewhere, the election of Negro candidates appeared to reflect a more liberal view by a multi-racial electorate.

WAR VETERAN

Lucius Amerson, Negro veteran of the Korean War, was elected sheriff of Macon County, Ala., over two white opponents. He was the first Negro elected a sheriff in Alabama since post-Civil War days.

In Texas, Barbara Jordan became the first Negro elected to the state Senate since 1881. Two Negroes were elected to the state House, the first since 1895.

FIRST MEMBER

Woodrow Wilson, 50, became the first Negro member of the Nevada legislature. A Republican, he placed sixth among nine successful candidates in a field of 18 in the Las Vegas area. All the other candidates were white.

In Arizona, Cloves Campbell was elected the first Negro member of the state Senate. Ethel Maynard became the first Negro woman ever elected to the state House. Both are Democrats.

FIRST ONE

Philadelphians elected Herbert Arlene, a Democrat, as the first Negro in the Pennsylvania state Senate. Boce W. Barlow, Jr., a Democrat, defeated a Republican of Puerto Rican extraction and won the first seat in the Connecticut state Senate ever held by a Negro. Four other Negroes, all Democrats, were elected to the lower house of the state legislature.

In Fayette County, Miss., Robert Lee Williams, a 33-year-old carpenter, was elected a member of the county board of education—first of his race to win public office in Mississippi in the 20th century.

Real Chance

'Live Elephant' Drawing Bead On White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican national chairman Ray C. Bliss proclaimed the GOP a "very live elephant" Thursday with a real chance of seizing the White House in 1968. President Johnson conceded at least that he would have trouble with congress next year.

Ending two days of silence after Republicans cut heavily into the Democrats' House majority, the president observed that "there is no question but that the other party strengthened its position."

SAME COURSE

He told reporters at his Texas ranch that GOP gains in Tuesday's elections would not alter the U.S. course in Viet Nam and should not give the administration "any great trouble" in congress.

Although Democrats retained numerical control of congress, he said, "it will be more difficult for any new legislation we might propose."

GREAT STRIDES

Bliss, the quiet party pro assigned to pick up the pieces after the GOP's 1964 Goldwater disaster, reported great strides "from the bottom up" — in big cities, Negro wards, state legislatures, governorships and in congress.

These gains he attributed primarily to voter concern over the high cost of living and increasing lawlessness. The result gave Republicans "reason to believe we can achieve a victory nationally" in 1968, he told a news conference.

ON TAXES

The GOP chairman said there also was obvious unrest over Viet Nam and administration policies generally, especially on taxes and spending which helped Republicans capture 47 House seats — more than the 30 he personally had expected.

Johnson said he and his advisers had figured on Democratic House losses of five to 10 less than the GOP scored.

MANY FACTORS

As for issues, the president said there were a "good many factors," including the voter appeal of California's Ronald Reagan, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio. The effect of "white backlash" is unclear, he said.

The Johnson and Bliss assessments of the elections capped a day of post mortems in which the new 90th Congress was reckoned to be more conservative, less favorable to labor's causes and more hawkish on Viet Nam.

STOP, LOOK

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield predicted it would be a "stop, look and listen" Congress that will make sure the nation gets the most for its money in federal programs rather than try to legislate major new ones.

New Sheriff

Posse Soon Passe

SELMA, Ala. (LAT) — Wilson Baker, a racial moderate, has defeated arch-segregationist James Clark in the Dallas county sheriff's race, and will disband Clark's mounted posse which beat Negro demonstrators here last year.

Baker also is expected to clean house in the sheriff's department here when he takes office in January.

BRIDGE CLIMAX

A long feud between the two men reached its climax during the Selma demonstrations in early 1965, when Clark used his mounted posse to beat back Negros on Pettus Bridge here. Baker at the time was city public service director.

Baker commented that he did not think the mounted posse force was needed in the county but refused to make further statements.

WOULDN'T WORK

However, other sources confirmed reports that Baker will disband the posse and turn the sheriff's department upside down when he took office.

Clark said: "I don't believe any of my possemen would work for Baker anyway." Clark said the posse had about 500 active.

Fifth Talk On Faith

At 9:30 Sunday morning and 11 in First United Church, Rev. Robert J. D. Morris will give the fifth in his series on Our Faith. The subject is I Believe In the Forgiveness of Sins. D. H. Bain will share in the conduct of the 11 a.m. service, which will be broadcast over CKDA.

The junior choir will sing Vesper Humn and Evening Prayer at the 9:30 a.m. service. Bernice Irwin and W. H. Gregory will sing the duet, The Lord Is My Shepherd, at the 11 a.m. service. The anthem will be O Worship The King.

Moderates, Conservatives Make Up Reagan Staff

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan, California's newly-elected Republican governor, has surrounded himself with a mixed band of youthful moderates and middle-age conservatives for his assumption of power in January.

Among the most influential probably will be the new lieutenant - governor, Robert Finch, generally considered a moderate although some right wingers label him liberal.

He is the only political pro in Reagan's ranks. He managed Senator George Murphy's successful campaign in 1964 and former vice-president Richard M. Nixon's unsuccessful ones for president in 1960 and for California governor against Governor Edmund G. Brown four years ago.

As his executive secretary and "strong right arm," Reagan named Philip M. Battaglia, 31, a Los Angeles lawyer and a loyal supporter of U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel. Battaglia, Reagan's campaign manager, has argued with conservative Republicans who want to dump Kuchel in 1968.

ROCKY MAN

Appointment of Battaglia cheered Republicans who admire Kuchel, a supporter of New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. Kuchel stayed out of the campaign after Barry Goldwater won the nomination.

Another appointment was likely to find favor with those who backed Goldwater and dislike Kuchel.

A. C. Rubel of Los Angeles, a former oil company president associated with conservative causes, was named chairman of a force to screen prospective appointees.

In Washington

Right-Wingers Given Beating

SEATTLE (LAT) — Gov. Daniel J. Evans emerged Thursday from a precinct level battle with a victory that apparently will send a moderate delegation from Washington to the 1968 Republication national convention.

Returns from King County, the state's largest which included Seattle, indicated that moderate candidates defeated ultra-conservatives about 2-to-1 in 600 contested races for precinct committee men in Tuesday's election.

DELAYED RESULTS

Similar contests, in which Evans-backed candidates opposed ultra-conservatives and John Birch Society members, took place throughout the state, but complete results will not be known until nex week.

However, in scattered returns outside King County — in Yakima County in central Washington and in Clallam County on the Olympic Peninsula — a majority of Evans-oriented candidates were running ahead.

PARTY OFFICERS

Precinct committee men in Washington elect county party officers. Their political philosophy eventually determines the makeup of the state central committee and of the declaration to the national convention. Next to California, Washington's delegation is the largest from the 11 western states.

Republicans Sweep Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Republicans displaced Alaska's Democratic governor and congressman-at-large Wednesday in a surprising show of strength that also may lead to control of the state legislature.

Anchorage hotelman Walter J. Hickel, a political neophyte, came from behind and finally in late returns sent Gov. William A. Egan down to defeat in his bid for re-election.

A short time before Hickel's victory became certain, Anchorage attorney Howard Pollock, a former state senator, overcame an early lead by Rep. Ralph Rivers to beat him.

Airlines Ready To Fill Gap

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Six regional airlines in Canada have mapped out a formula to provide emergency cross-country service if a strike threat by the machinists union is carried out against Air Canada Monday.

The companies involved include Pacific Western Airlines of Vancouver, Transair Ltd. of Winnipeg, Nordair Ltd. of Quebec, Austin Airways of Toronto, Eastern Provincial Airways of Nfld., and Quebecair of Rimouski, Que.

An application to provide emergency service has been prepared for presentation to the Air Transport Board.

Sheppard Retrial

Surprise Witnesses Tell of Key, Blood

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A surprise defence witness testified Thursday he saw Marilyn Sheppard slip a house key to a strange man in her kitchen seven months before she was murdered in her bedroom.

The witness said Mrs. Sheppard told the man: "Don't let Sam see this."

In more surprise testimony, another witness said a spatter of blood in the murder room was not that of Mrs. Sheppard or her husband, Dr. Samuel Sheppard, now being retried for murder.

DIFFERENT GROUP

The house key testimony came from Jack Krakan, who once delivered baked goods to the Sheppard home. He did not testify at Sheppard's 1954 trial.

The testimony about blood came from Dr. Paul Leland Kirk, professor of criminalistics at the University of California at Berkeley. He said he believed the murder weapon was wielded by the killer's left hand and that a large spot of blood on the bedroom wardrobe door tested as "O" group and could not have come from Dr. Sheppard, who has "A" group blood.

Dr. Kirk said further tests convinced him that the big spot came from a different human being than that of the other droplets in the blood-spattered room, which were almost certainly Marilyn's blood.

FINGER BITTEN

The big spot, he said, although of the same blood group as that of the victim, showed enough chemical differences to make it clear that it did not come from Marilyn Sheppard.

The defence maintained in Sheppard's 1954 trial that Mrs. Sheppard had bitten the finger of her killer.

Krakan, a small man who has been a diabetic most of his life, was the first defence witness. He testified he saw the stranger in the kitchen of the Sheppard home while delivering baked goods, but did not know who he was.

SAW PICTURE

He said the man was about 5-feet-6 or 5-7, between 50 and 60 years of age and "very distinguished looking." He said that some time after the murder he was shown a picture of the man.

Krakan said he had been a driver-salesman for a Lorain, Ohio, baking company and delivered bread once a week to the Sheppard home. He said he saw the stranger in the Sheppard home on two occasions in December, 1953.

RUSHED TO WIFE

Kirk testified that a spot of blood on the side of the sheet on which Mrs. Sheppard's body was found had been diluted later with water — that the blood had been there first.

The defence contends that after Marilyn was killed, her assailant knocked Sheppard unconscious on the beach of Lake Eire and that Sheppard has wallowed in the water. Then, according to the defence, Sheppard rushed to his wife to feel her pulse, pressing his knee against the sheet.

Chief defence counsel F. Lee Bailey had told the jury in his opening statement he would produce evidence that the murderer "had a key and had had one for some time."

Last week, Bailey had asked a state witness, J. Spencer Houk, if he ever had been given a key to the Sheppard home in Bay Village, a Cleveland suburb. Houk, a former mayor of Bay Village and a friend of the Sheppards, replied he had not.

Children Die In House Fire

FARMINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Seven children died Thursday in a fire which swept their home in suburban Farmington Township. Their ages ranged from 2 to 12.

Except for the parents and a nine-year-old daughter, Cynthia, the blaze wiped out the family of Harold and Rose Palmateer. The father was at work as an industrial welder at the time.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

For Rhodesia

Midnight Bell Heralds Era

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith early today rang in the second year of Rhodesia's independence and told cheering white fellow-countrymen: "This is the beginning of a wonderful era."

ANOTHER NAIL

"Every time it rings, it means a nail in the coffin of the people who want to interfere in the internal affairs of Rhodesia," the prime minister told the dancers.

"Those days are gone forever."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Scattered groups of youths, totalling little more than a hundred, roamed the central city area and sang "happy birthday to you" at midnight.

It was a year ago today that Smith announced Rhodesia was declaring itself independent unilaterally to end 40 years as a British colony.

SECOND THOUGHTS

Smith set a provocative edge on the anniversary celebrations when he said Thursday that Rhodesians are having second thoughts about the British monarchy.

In a filmed interview shown here on the eve of celebrations marking the first anniversary of the break, Smith said the monarchy was being brought into disrepute by being used "as a pawn in the political game."

UN Vote Approves Force

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — A 54-power Afro-Asian resolution proposing that Britain use force to end the Rhodesian rebellion was adopted by the General Assembly's trusteeship committee Thursday.

Western, Scandinavian and most Latin American countries refused to support the proposal to use force.

Only Six Made It

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons public account committee meeting was cancelled when the committee could not gather the required quorum of 10 members. Only six members of the 24-man committee turned up for the meeting which was to consider sections of the auditor-general's 1965 report.

Big Kellogg Profits Draw Biting Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—Kellogg Co. of Canada Ltd. ran into a biting examination Thursday over its vast promotions, big profits and a decision in September to jack up prices another 10 per cent.

Kellogg's "blackmailed" and "clubbed" parents with advertising of pre-sweetened cereals aimed at their children, members of the Senate-Commons committee on living costs suggested.

He said the increase would only bring his company's profits back to their 1958 level—11.81 per cent. The 1965 level was 11.31 per cent and the company's costs are up this year.

He was reminded that the 1958 level has already been described by a royal commission as "abnormally high."

Kellogg's report to the committee showed promotion and advertising spending and returns on sales far in excess of any previous witnesses before the inquiry into food costs.

Committee counsel Marcel Joyal said the company's 1965 dollar yield on gross sales—more than 23 per cent—has no match in retailing, wholesaling, manufacturing, service or transportation.

The Kellogg's brief showed that advertising, promotion and various discounts and incentives to retailers make up more than 17 cents of every dollar it charges.

Mr. Robinson said this scale of promotions is essential to keep cereal names before the public and prevent a steady drift to other products.

HALF MARKET

The American - owned company reported sales of $26,600,000 last year and its president said this represents half the market. He said the field nevertheless remains competitive and denied that a breakfast food "oligopoly" exists in Canada.

Several MPs tied into the witness about TV commercials that identify Yogi Bear and various forest friends with new higher-cost breakfast foods.

Was this blackmail fair when the children had no money and the parents were on a family budget? asked Mrs. Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway).

Mr. Robinson said he was sure all parents were interested in the welfare and nourishment of their children and would make sure any product brought into the home was used up.

Mrs. MacInnis said she could draw her own conclusion: That Kellogg's "cannot afford to take into account how far the family budget can stretch."

Mr. Robinson said at another point that Yogi Bear is "no longer on our payroll." He had done a fine job while employed.

ONE SELL

"Yogi Bear in his heyday might have been able to sell a package once. But no power on earth would have been able to sell that product a second time unless the consumer was completely satisfied with it."

Ron Basford, committee co-chairman, quoted from the 1960 royal commission on price spreads, which described breakfast food companies as having abnormally high returns on capital and expenditures on promotion. They were said to have made rapid and unnecessary price advances.

Mr. Basford pointed out that Mr. Robinson himself was saying his Sept. 1 price increases were aimed at restoring profit to the level of 1958, the time specifically studied by the commission.

Company Says Price Changes Saved Buyers $1,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — General Foods Ltd. claimed Thursday that the effect of its price changes in the last 18 months has been to save its customers $1,000,000 a year.

It said prices of 36 of its products were unchanged during that period, prices of eight increased and prices of nine were reduced.

In sum, only 2.5 per cent of its product volume costs more as it leaves General Foods plants than it did on March 1, 1965, the company told the Senate-Commons committee on living costs.

COFFEE, DESERT

The main lines of the company are coffee and packaged desserts, but it also turns out cereals, beverages, frozen foods, dog foods and baking ingredients.

Executives of the American-owned company were questioned about the net profit of 3.6 per cent they showed for their Post - cereals. Earlier in the day Kellogg Co. of Canada Ltd., exclusively a cereal manufacturer with half the Canadian market, showed a net profit of 11.31 per cent.

'JUST SMARTER'

General Foods president James W. Andrews said he guesses Kellogg's "are just smarter than we are."

General Foods sales in 1965-66 totalled $97,600,000 and its profits after taxes were $4,800,000, or 4.9 per cent of sales.

By Nigerian Slaughter

'Apartheid Right'

Tribal slaughter in Nigeria proves the wisdom of South Africa's apartheid policy, said a spokesman for the South African government Thursday at the University of Victoria.

L. E. S. de Villiers, an attache with the South African embassy in Ottawa, told a sceptical audience of students that the example of Nigeria shows that national differences must be accounted for.

It doesn't matter whether the nations are all black or black and white, said Mr. de Villiers.

The attache's speech was picketed by more than 30 orderly students, and he answered a barrage of questions after his talk.

Mr. de Villiers observed that since the tribal violence in Nigeria, a "sorting-out" process has been going on among Hausa, Ibo, Yoruba and other tribes. Each is regrouping in different areas.

"These events merely confirm what we in South Africa have known all along and witnessed before in many other black African states: you cannot force amalgamation or unity between vastly different black nations," he said.

"Still, it is expected from us in South Africa to attempt fusion between the proud black nations within our country.

"Furthermore it is expected from us to join such a highly explosive mixture for the sake of so-called world opinion."

In an interview Mr. de Villiers said that South Africa has lifted its emergency detention laws under which people suspected of sabotage could be held without trial for 90 days and more without trial.

CHALLENGE

It applied only to sabotage suspects, not in ordinary criminal cases, he said.

"You cannot fight these people (saboteurs) by ordinary means. They don't fight by the Queensbury rules," said the attache.

"I would challenge anybody to show me any man in South Africa who has been arrested, put on trial or detained for his opposition to the government."

Passenger Injured

A two-car collision at Quadra and Tattersall shortly after 4 p.m. Thursday resulted in heavy damage and one seriously injured passenger.

Ottawa Pledges Aid for Indians

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Ottawa is ready and willing to help the Cowichan Indians with their housing problem.

In a letter to Abraham Joe, chairman of the band's grievance committee, Indian Affairs Minister Laing Thursday said he is prepared to recommend a capital contribution to the band to meet the immediate housing needs.

The band's grievance committee was formed at the beginning of September as Indians charged they did not get the full share of governmental housing aid.

Analysing the appalling housing conditions on the Cowichan Indian Reserve, the committee sent a brief to Mr. Laing.

In the brief the committee stated 81 new houses should be built on the reserve over a period of three years.

SUFFICIENT AMOUNT

In his letter Mr. Laing said a contribution of a sufficient amount would be spread over the next four years. He said the money would be administered by the Cowichan Band Council.

He said the housing brief by the Indians is closely related to the objective of the Indian affairs department plans.

Mr. Laing, in March this year, announced in the House of Commons a program for the total physical development of Indian reserves throughout Canada, to be carried out with the co-operation of the Indian people over the next five years.

He said one program has been developed and further programs are being considred to meet the ultimate objective.

Mr. Laing said the funds will be administered by the band council or by the housing committee approved by the council.

The understanding would be that the signing of the new houses would be in compliance with the recommendation put forth in the Cowichan planning study, prepared for the band by Vancouver planner Robert Williams in March.

Earlier this week Cowichan Indian Agent Ron Sampson said it is hoped a new housing scheme for the Cowichan Band will be in operation by beginning of next April.

THREE POINTS

The new scheme has three points: subsidy housing for those in need; rental-purchase for those who can pay rent from earnings and social allowances; and funds for second mortgages for those who qualify for regular housing loans.

Sheep Case

Pair Out On Bail Of $100

GANGES — Two men pleaded not guilty to a joint charge of stealing one sheep when they appeared in magistrate's court here Thursday afternoon.

George Plumb of Cowichan Station and Ronald Plumb of Duncan were remanded on $100 bail each to Nov. 18 by Magistrate M. F. Peiler.

A vigilante band of Salt Spring Island sheepmen was set up late last year because for years ranchers have been missing as many as 100 animals a year from their flocks.

Rancher Bob Akerman, who had lost 100 ewes in one swoop, reported Thursday, "We got a tip Sunday that a boat was off the shore of my place and got over there just as fast as we could.

* * *

"We were just in time. We rushed down the hill in the fog to see a boat pulling out."

Mr. Akerman and his son Ted pursued the boat into Cowichan Bay, but lost it. They said they later found a boat tied up.

Two-Hour Sailings 'Rotten'

Ferry Foulup Delays Thousands

Up to thousands of people were stranded for six or more hours at Swartz Bay terminal Thursday and the B.C. Ferry System came under heavy fire for not commencing hourly service for the start of the Remembrance Day holiday.

"Where the hell's that world's greatest ferry system now?" asked Roger Poirier, of Toronto, who had been at Swartz Bay since 5 p.m. and was awaiting the 11 p.m. sailing.

"Rotten service," said Dr. T. W. Head, of Victoria. "I'm doggone disgusted with everyone."

Dr. Head was another of many people who arrived at 5 p.m. and would sail at 11 p.m. Two extra late sailing disposed of the last of the simmering motorists.

HOURLY PLAN

Most of the anger was aimed at the ferry system failing to utilize its vessels with hourly sailings.

Almost all persons interviewed told of a Victoria man who carried a petition with about 1,000 signatures on it protesting use of two-hour service the night before a holiday.

HE SAILED

But they said the unidentified man had caught the 9 p.m. sailing.

Many women had one or more small children in cars with them, the car motors running steadily during the four to six-hour wait in the cold night.

The terminal restaurant was packed throughout the wait.

OUTSIDE GATE

At the height of the wait more than a ferry load of vehicles sat inside the terminal gates and another ferry load outside, said terminal agent D. J. Keen.

"I don't know what else was over the hill. I haven't been out there all night," he said.

BAD COMBINATION

B.C. Ferries general manager Monte Aldous said the huge backlog of cars was due to a combination of good weather and Remembrance Day falling on a Friday, making an additional long weekend this year.

He said hourly weekend service will start at 7 a.m. today.

"An extra long weekend is extremely difficult to provide for," he said.

NANAIMO, TOO

In Nanaimo hundreds of travellers were similarly stranded for hours.

"I guess we just goofed," one ferry official there commented.

"It stinks," was the comment Richard Jackson, of Victoria, suggested for the log book aboard the ferries which asks for passengers to comment on the service.

NOT PRINTABLE

"Lousy," Henry Stimpson, Victoria.

"Mismanagement," Clarence Hronek, Victoria.

"It's not printable," Delmar McLean, Victoria.

"Disgraceful," Ray Furber, Langford.

'SHOULD BE SHOT'

"Bennett should be shot, having a tieup like this," said Bill Boone of Victoria.

By 10:15 p.m. none of the 150 cars that had been waiting outside the terminal gates was still there. They had been scheduled for a special 1 p.m. sailing.

Round One to John D

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — John Diefenbaker scored a stunning first-round victory in his leadership battle as the resolutions committee of the party endorsed his leadership Thursday.

* * *

Committee chairman E. A. Goodman of Toronto said there was "overwhelming support" among the 21 members for the "wording and content" of a draft vote of confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker.

* * *

Resolutions Committee Backs Tory Leadership

Asked if the committee was voting confidence, he replied: "You can't have it any other way."

Mr. Goodman said there was a "narrow majority" favoring decision by a standing vote, rejecting a secret ballot.

But the draft resolution, published Thursday, allows a secret ballot on a leadership convention if Mr. Diefenbaker is defeated in the confidence vote.

The second resolution on leadership states:

"In the event that the vote expressing confidence is not sustained, that the question of whether or not a leadership convention should be called should be placed on the agenda of the annual meeting and that a vote on such question be taken by ballot."

* * *

Mr. Goodman explained that beside the two leadership resolutions of his committee, any delegate can make any motion or amendment from the floor of the national meeting.

He admitted that a third of the 60 resolutions received from members and constituency associations dealt with leadership.

And most of them favored reassessment of the leadership.

* * *

The leadership battle is scheduled to be fought on Wednesday, the third day of the national meeting.

However, the agenda will not be firm until the national executive has fought it out at a meeting Sunday, on the eve of the rally.

* * *

Mr. Goodman announced that special precautions will be taken to ensure a fair and accurate count on the resolutions.

The committee, he said, is committed to "all necessary steps to ensure that only accredited delegates are allowed in the room because of the problems of space and proper procedures are taken to see that everyone can vote."

About 1,300 delegates are invited. He expected more than 1,200 of them to come to Ottawa and vote.

The Goodman committee's

Bennett's Bid for Appeal Denied by Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia Thursday was denied leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against an order for retrial of a slander suit against him.

* * *

The court's decision leaves the way clear for George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. purchasing commission, to take his case against the premier back to the B.C. Supreme Court Jan. 9.

But the B.C. Appeal Court ordered a retrial, and this will now go ahead following refusal of the Supreme Court of Canada to grant Mr. Bennett permission to argue against the order.

Jones was charged by the B.C. attorney-general Oct. 2, 1964 on two counts of unlawfully accepting a benefit as chairman of the purchasing commission.

When the counts were thrown out in county court, the Bennett government introduced a bill in the B.C. legislature compelling the retirement of Jones from his job.

* * *

Slander was alleged by Jones in remarks the premier made March 5, 1965, at a time when the bill was before the legislature and the attorney-general still had an appeal on the criminal charges pending in the courts.

Mr. Bennett's request for leave to appeal was heard Monday by Mr. Justice Ronald Martland, Mr. Justice Roland Ritchie and Mr. Justice Emmett Hall.

Rear View Rapped

LONDON (AP) — There's a new Safety Council poster that shows June Palmer's almost-bare bottom, and the question is: Does it make viewers safety-conscious?

The Safety Council is mailing the poster to 20,000 factories to be posted on bulletin boards. June, a model, is shown with high heels in the air, her frothy, short evening dress up above her thighs, and a large expanse of flesh.

The wording:

Purler is cockney slang for falling on your backside.

"I'm certainly not narrow-minded, but this sort of poster has no useful purpose and isn't necessary. It makes people look at it — but not with safety in mind."

Told of Mann's reaction, a Safety Council spokesman said: "We believe the poster has impact. We don't think it's at all sexy."

The message, he said, was to bring home the point that if girls and women wear high-heeled shoes they may take a fall.

June commented:

"If I had thought there was anything wrong in posing for the poster I wouldn't have done it."

Salary Crisis Over

GRITS FIND WAY TO PAY

By RON COLLISTER, Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Like a magician from Bay Street, Prime Minister Pearson last night dipped into the treasury and produced millions galore to pay the mid-month cheque of Canada's civil servants.

The Tories called it "trickery" and accused the government of dishonesty in allowing a crisis to develop and delaying civil servants' cheques, knowing all the time that there was money available.

Tory Terry Nugent said the government had panicked the country as a political ploy.

"They did it," he said bitterly, "just to see if they could get us to back down for a political victory."

But the move by the prime minister, whatever the trickery involved, looked like the first really smart move the government had taken.

It removed the main leverage of the Tory campaign to keep the interim supply debate rolling: that civil servants would not be paid if the government did not cave in on the armed forces unification bill.

Setback at Meeting

The meeting was to have been dominated by a national crisis. Instead, it will be dominated by a major parliamentary setback.

But Mr. Pearson, unable to conceal his delight over his financial coup, invited the Tories to go to their national meeting "happy and smiling, as good Conservatives should be."

Mr. Pearson squeezed the Tories into a box by announcing that the guaranteed income for pensioners will be on the order paper of parliament next week.

Higher pensions is one of the great slogans of the Tories, and they are unlikely to invite criticism for delaying higher pensions.

But there is a setback for Defence Minister Hellyer, too.

Second Tongue Worth Cash

OTTAWA (CP) — As civil servants grumbled about delays in getting paid, the federal government came up with announcements to improve the lot of some federal employees Thursday.

Prime Minister Pearson, addressing a luncheon of the 115,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada, said he hopes proposed collective bargaining legislation — to deal initially with pay matters — will eventually be expanded to "attack problems relating to morale and productivity and the public image of the public service."

In another development, the government announced that a pay differential of seven per cent of normal pay rates will be awarded government secretaries, stenographers and typists who use both official languages in their work.

Retroactive to Oct. 1, 1966, the differential could affect about 16,000 employees, but only those who show bilingual proficiency in a series of tests will benefit.

Postal employees were heartened by the arrival here Thursday of Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of Quebec Superior Court, named Wednesday night to mediate the Group D pay dispute.

For Murder

Radio Man To Hang

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani, 41, former radio station promotion man, was found guilty Thursday night of capital murder in the arsenic poisoning of his wife. He was sentenced to be hanged Feb. 21.

Castellani showed no signs of emotion when the verdict was announced by the British Columbia Supreme Court jury.

Mrs. Esther Castellani died in a hospital here July 11, 1965, months after complaining of headaches, dizzy spells and general weakness.

* * *

Several weeks after her death, Mrs. Castellani's body was exhumed on orders of the city coroner. The charge against Castellani was laid some time later.

The Crown contended Mrs. Castellani died of arsenic poisoning systematically administered by Castellani over a period of at least five months.

* * *

In his summation, defence lawyer A. A. Mackoff said the Crown had only proved that Castellani was having an affair with Mrs. Adelaide (Lollie) Miller, 27. But he said the crown did not prove that Castellani was a diabolically clever poisoner.

* * *

Prpsecutor T. G. Bowen-Colthurst said the Crown's first contention is that Mrs. Castellani died of arsenic poisoning. He said the prosecution's case is that Castellani administered arsenic to his wife at home, then later administered arsenic to her in food brought to Mrs. Castellani in the hospital.

'Whole Business' Coming Out

Mr. O'Neal, western regional organizer for the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, said Thursday he is prepared to cooperate fully with the commissioner, R. A. Sargent, a former county court judge.

* * *

But Mr. O'Neal, denied allegations that he knew private detectives he hired to investigate the rival Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada were planning to use electronic eavesdropping devices.

He said he hopes the commission will make the public aware of the issues involved in the inter-union rivalry.

"I think this is going to bring the whole business before the public—not only the bugging, but all of the aspects of the dispute."

* * *

Mr. O'Neal was reached in a suburban hotel as he waited for a flight East, where he will meet with the Canadian director of the union, Henry Lorrain.

In Victoria Thursday, a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said the inquiry should be under way next week.

* * *

A private detective, W. B. Graham, said Mr. O'Neal had paid him $250 to rent the bugging equipment, and that he had been introduced to Mr. O'Neal by members of the RCMP security and intelligence branch.

Mr. O'Neal said he hired Mr. Graham to get evidence of efforts by the Canadian union to intimidate members of the international union.

Ceasefire Thought Blunder

No Rousing Cheers That Grey Morning

Boussu was typical of all Belgain coal mining towns on the damp, grey morning of Nov. 11, 1918.

It stood athwart the big Route Nationale from Valenciennes to Mons and it was here that Lt.-Col. G. C. Johnston, officer commanding the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, was handed the Armistice cease-fire order. Just like that.

He didn't throw his hat in the air, or call for three rousing cheers. In fact he looked angry and to a group standing near I heard him say:

"The blondy fools. Now the Boche armies will march across the Rhine bridges as herores. Another couple of months of comparatively easy warfare and we could have smashed him beyond repair as a fighting machine.

"Now your sons and mine will have to do this again in 25 years."

When news of the Armistice was posted all troops formally informed a strange thing happened. Nobody cheered. Of course we had felt ever since leaving the Cambrai area in mid-October that we were pursuing a stubborn but defeated army. Mighty stubborn. We lost 32 killed and 51 wounded on Nov. 5 just in taking the little village of Quiverain!

* * *

Perhaps the Armistice came as a sort of remission of a long sentence; a thing dreamed of — like a nice Blighty through the fat of one's thigh — dreamed of, but exceedingly remote.

But the Belgian people simply went crazy in their joy, in which we certainly shared once the truth came home to us.

And the next day, behind its band, the 2nd CMRs stepped out along the highway to Mons to a reception beyond all hope of description.

Behind were four years in which they had fought and defeated the cream of the German armies. And although they fought with fierce determination and a sort of insolent courage and elan, for the most part they fought without hate.

For Jordan River Mine

New Financing Key to Reopening

VANCOUVER (CP) — O. G. MacDonald, president of Cowichan Copper, said Thursday he will make another attempt to get the company's Sunro Mine, at Jordan River on Vancouver Island, back into production.

The mine was flooded late in 1963.

* * *

Mr. MacDonald said he will try to raise new financing after company creditors voted at a meeting to accept a new Cowichan debt proposal, under which creditors will get 40 cents on the dollar when and if the mine gets back into production.

* * *

Cowichan's debts total $3,910,000.

"I told the creditors that I wouldn't be wasting their time unless I believed I could raise new financing," Mr. MacDonald said.

Garbage Issue Regional But City Has Questions

Victoria city council went along Thursday with the concept that the disposal of garbage in this district should be regional board responsibility, but it still wants answers to a lot of questions.

Among them:

- How and by whom should refuse be collected?
- Should there be one huge disposal area, or many?
- Should the use of private firms for collection and disposal be discontinued?
- What about incineration?
- How much is all this going to cost, and who will pay what share?

The issue, which evolved from a technical report prepared recently be engineering and health authorities of the district and submitted to the inter-municipal committee, was tossed around in informal discussion Thursday following a meeting of city council.

Consensus was that over-all control by the regional board of the capital of B.C. would be good, but that the report should be sent back and the experts asked to come up with a specific recommendation.

In the report the technicians gave several alternatives for disposal, including compaction and minimum cover with solid, a controlled landfill operation, and smokeless and odorless burning.

Previous studies have shown that while the incineration method is most desirable it is extremely expensive. It has been estimated that a smokeless, odorless incineration plant, big enough to dispose of all the district's garbage, would cost $2,000,000.

Mayor Toone pointed out Thursday that while the problem might be brought under regional control, municipalities would still have the right to their own collection systems.

Tribute Paid Mooney

A resolution of regret and sympathy, passed by a standing vote, will be sent to the family of the man who was a member of city council for 14 years.

* * *

Welfare recipients will receive the usual Christmas bonus from the city — $10 for heads of families and $4 each for single persons.

* * *

Aldermen authorized payment of a share of the $1,500 it will cost to repair some of the damage caused by a fire on Mount Douglas this autumn.

* * *

TORONTO 0, BOSTON 4
CHICAGO 0, DETROIT 3

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings played the roll of giant killers in National Hockey League action. Thursday night, defeating Toronto and Chicago respectively, who are one-two in the standings.

	GP	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts
Chicago	8	6	2	0	21	20	12
Toronto	10	3	2	5	22	24	11
Montreal	8	4	3	1	19	20	9
Detroit	10	4	5	1	24	20	9
Boston	10	3	5	2	20	35	8
New York	10	2	5	3	20	31	7

Next games Saturday: New York at Montreal, Toronto at Detroit.

SORE BACK

Hull, with four goals and three assists in Chicago's first seven games, has been plagued with back trouble and didn't even dress for the game.

HALL OUT

In Boston, rookie goaltender Gerry Cheevers, recalled from the minor leauges just four days ago, recorded his first National Hockey League shutout as the Bruins upset Toronto 4-0.

Boston wasted little time in going ahead when Murray Oliver scored his second goal of the season. Toronto goaltender Terry Sawchuk was checked while trying to clear the puck out of his zone and couldn't recover in time to stop Oliver's shot.

Par-Busting Round Gives Canada Lead

By BOB MYERS

TOKYO (AP)—Record-breaking George Knudson of Canada, with a spectacular first-round, eight-under-par 64, led the way into the second round of the Canada Cup international golf tournament, but his two-stroke lead over 71 rival professionals was a precarious one.

In the team contest, Canada held a one-stroke lead at 134 over four other countries. Frank Fowler of Calgary shot a two-under-par 70.

WEATHER GOOD

The weather again promised to be good for this 14th edition of the event, one in which two invited players from each of 36 countries and regions compete.

Two shots back ok Knudson were Arnold Palmer of the United States, Kel Nagle of Australia and Japan's Hideyo Sugimoto, whose brilliant 31-35—66 held up all day until Knudson stormed in with his 64.

Knudson, formerly of Winnipeg and now of Toronto, shot 34-30—64 and broke the Canada Cup one-round record of 65. He shot the 64 Thursday on the Tokyo Yomiuri Country Club course, a hilly test that measures 6,962 yards and has par 36-36—72.

HIS FINEST ROUND

"I'd have to say it was the finest round I ever shot, especially that 30 on the back nine," said Knudson.

It had been hoped to limit spectators to 5,000 because this is not a spectators' course. But the largest golf turnout ever seen in Japan, an estimated 12,000, swarmed all over the place Thursday.

Visitors were told the Japanese, never much interested in golf before, have gone slightly golf-crazy. They are convinced.

FOUR TIED

The United States, Formosa, Japan and Australia were deadlocked at 135 for second place in the team competition an defending champion South Africa followed with 138.

"The greens were perfect," said the Canadian, who banged out five straight birdies starting with the 10th hole. He added another on the 17th and almost holed out from 40 feet on the last green. His birdie putts were from three, seven, 25, 10, 5 and eight feet.

Moilanen Paces Totem Victory

Ollie Moilanen returned to last season's form Thursday, scoring 27 points to lead Victoria High Totems to a narrow 47-45 victory over Claremont in inter-high school basketball at Victoria High.

In the other games Oak Bay trounced Mount View, 58-32, at Oak Bay and St. Louis College topped Esquimalt, 44-30.

Claremont was led by Jim McHattie with 15 points and Dave Blade with 14 as they lost their second straight game by two points.

Esquimalt's Bob DeCosta turned in a fine effort scoring 27 points but John Smith with 18 and Terry Ackerman with 13 led St. Louis to the victory.

CLAREMONT (45)—Dave Blade 14, Vern Benn 4, Jim McHattie 15, Ken Lundeen 8, Southard Quent, Malcolm McMillan, John Sheldrake, Glen Cambridge, Ted Clark, Dave Tooby 9.

VICTORIA HIGH (47)—Roger Halfhide 2, Greg Schroeder 4, Paul Lee, Barry Moen, Len Rouche 2, Dexter Mason 10, Bill Clark 2, Joe Teller, Ollie Moilanen 27.

Grass Hockey Title to Oaks

Oak Bay finished an outstanding season in inter-high school grasshockey Thursday, defeating second place Esquimalt, 1-0, at Oak Bay.

Sharon Pullin scored the lone goal for Miss B. Hanslip's league champions. Oak Bay won all eight games without giving up a goal.

Alberni Provides Macs Competition

Victoria Coffee Macs meet Alberni Athletics this weekend, in the first two games of their Inter-City Senior "A" Men's Baskeball League Season, in Victoria.

Team manager, John Devlin, is confident that the Macs can take both games from the A's. Victoria played an exhibition game at Alberni two weeks ago, were beaten by 19 points, but were missing high scoring John Lauveas and Ken Gregory, a strong rebounder.

On Sunday, at 2 p.m., the Macs try something new, holding the game at the University of Victoria gymnasium in the hope fans will respond to afternoon basketball.

Saturday's game will be held at Central Junior High at 8:30 p.m.

Nationals Thrash Drumheller

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's national team coasted to an easy 7-2 victory over defending Allan Cup champions Drumheller Miners Thursday night in an exhibition hockey game before 2,300 fans.

It was the second meeting of the two clubs, Nationals took a 4-3 decision from Miners Saturday in Rosetown, Sask.

The teams played to a 1-1 draw in the first period of the lackluster contest and Nationals forged ahead 5-2 in the second. The victory gave Nationals a 10-1 record with New York Rangers handing them their only defeat, a 7-0 whitewash Oct. 8.

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LAUREL, Md. (CP) — Canada's George Royal, his chances buoyed by prospects of a heavy turf track, makes another bid today to win the $150,000 Washington International horse race here.

It may be the last start for the durable Canadian-bred five-year-old, who ranks behind only the retired Northern Dancer as the highest money winner among Canadian horses and ranks first for Western Canada.

"He looks to be as good or better than a year ago," co-owner Robert Hall of Vancouver said Thursday night.

GRASS THREAT

Assagai, an American three-year-old and top grass threat, was a heavy favorite for the 15th running of the 1½ - mile event, which only two favorites have captured. Assagai, like George Royal, prefers the heavy going but the other American entry, Tom Rolfe, doesn't and his grass record is less spectacular.

Tom Rolfe was made second favorite at 4 to 1, however, the rating given George Royal last year when the Canadian entry came fourth.

George Royal, Britain's David Jack and the Soviet Union's Aniline, another mudder who finished third in 1964, well back of the great Kelso and Gun Bow, share odds of 6 to 1.

CARRIES 127 POUNDS

George Royal, like all horses aged four or more, is carrying 127 pounds, compared with 120 for Assagai. He drew post position No. 3.

Hall, here to watch the race with his Vancouver partner, Ernie Hammond, said the field of 10, representing seven countries, will make it more difficult for George Royal than last year's field of seven.

George Royal likes to come from behind and it is harder in a larger field to keep good position or get through.

Hall said the fact jockey Ismael Valenzuela has ridden George twice, winning the Canadian championship at Toronto's Woodbine for a second time recently, is a plus.

THREE FOR FRANCE

France, which placed one-two in 1965, has three three-year-old horses in the race this time, while Brazil and Venezuela round out the field. France, with four victories, leads foreign entries, which have won seven times to seven for American horses. This is Russia's eighth bid.

Hall said this could be George Royal's last race and thought is being given to establishing a syndicate for stud duty.

He said George Royal, who has won the San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita, Calif., twice, has earned about $322,000 so far. He won $10,000 for fourth place here last year.

* * *

Post Positions

LAUREL, Md. (CP)—Canada's George Royal, owned by Bob Hall and Ernie Hammond of Vancouver, drew the No. 3 post position today for Friday's running of the $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel race track.

The No. 1 post position went to Brazil's Folio, with Russia's Aniline in No. 2. The favored Assagai of the United States got No. 6.

The No. 5 spot went to Tom Rolfe, the second U.S. representative and the runner-up in the advance odds.

No. 4 was drawn by Vasco de Gama of France, No. 7 by Behistoun also of France, No. 8 by England's David Jack, No. 9 by Venezuela's Socopo, and No. 10 by the third Frency entry, Silver Shark.

A steady rain poured down on the turf track all night, but trainers reported the course still firm for the 1½-mile race. The forecast called for the rain to stop later today.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Outdoors emphasis returns to hunting again this holiday weekend with antlerless deer fair game from today until Nov. 27.

This is also the time of the year where extra safety precautions should be practised in the bush. Wear blaze orange and be sure of your target before you shoot.

Both bucks and does are in season. The danger is that hunters don't have to look for horns. The occasional careless hunter may make a sound shot and that sound just could be another man. So . . . BE SEEN, BE SURE, BE SAFE in this part of the hunting season which has become known as the "silly season."

Outlook for goose hunters at Tofino this week is pretty good so far as birds are concerned, but Reuben Parker reported bright sunny weather at Tofino Thursday which isn't the best for waterfowl hunters. Upwards of 5,000 big Canadas are reported flying around the many inlets in the Tofino area.

* * *

Cowichan Bay is still the best bet for saltwater anglers.

Jim Gilbert estimates there are still nearly 30,000 fish in Cowichan Bay, some of them fresh, bright coho which appear to be arriving daily.

Best fishing has been in the middle of the Bay between Genoa Bay and Wilcuma and Gilbert has been getting them on bucktail fly on the surface and as deep as 100 and 150 feet of wire line and planer. Jacks and the odd big spring (chinook) are being taken on deep lines.

Grilse fishing is still good in Saanich Inlet, off Tod Inlet, Willis Point, Senanus Island, Indian Bay and Bamberton with spoons and small minnows and four to six ounces of weight. The odd coho is being taken and some big winter springs (not many) have shown off Bamberton, seemingly on their way into Finlayson Arm.

Jacksprings are now providing most of the sport in Finlayson Arm with Minnow-Teaser and Strip-Teasers best producers.

Off Oak Bay, it has been mostly jacksprings with the occasional winter spring showing. Spin casters are getting jacksprings in Victoria's outer harbor.

The winter springs seem to be arriving late, although some good catches have been reported from Esquimalt waters.

A few jacksprings have been taken off Pedder Bay, but the winter springs have still to arrive. There was fantastic fishing there, at this time last year. A few winter springs are being taken off Secretary Island, but it is a little too early for the main run off Whiffen Spit.

At Campbell River the winter springs are being taken in Duncan Bay off the pulp mill. Coho and jacks are being taken at Crofton and fish deep for winter springs in Sansum Narrows.

* * *

Sayward Forest lakes are all reported pretty fair for trout, so combine that hunting trip this weekend with some fishing.

Coho are late returning to the rivers and are just starting to enter the bigger rivers now. There were few in the Nitinat last weekend when we fished it, but we did manage to get a trout and a jack on a Luhr Jensen Sneak spinner. My wife, Taffy, found the same lure productive on the Cowichan River Friday in the Skutz Falls area and in the Riverbottom-Stoltz pool, for both coho and jacks. She released two bright coho. Jim Hume used a similar lure to catch an early-run steelhead in a Sooke river at the weekend. Harris Creek is producing steelhead and there are some steelhead in the Crossover section of the San Juan. Stamp and Ash Rivers now contain some steelhead.

Remember the Cowichan is closed from the weir to the black CNR bridge just above Skutz Falls, which includes the shingle mill pools, the Rips, The Willow and Cabin Pool fishing waters, but the rest of the Cowichan is open for fishing.

Threat

Major offensive threat for Oak Bay is end Cam Crofton who expects to see a lot of action when Farmer Construction meets Renfrew Trojans in today's sudden-death B.C. Juvenile Football final at Macdonald Park at 1 p.m.

'I Just Grab Something'

Invited to Fight Says Accused

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — Testimony in Assize Court Thursday was highly colored with four-letter words.

Florian Lehoux, 45, Wolf Lake gatekeeper, is charged with non-capital murder in the Aug. 12 death of 60-year-old Dudley (Dusty) Miller.

Testimony, given by RCMP on statements made by the accused, indicated a strong argument between the two.

Blood alcohol tests by Mrs. Rolande Andree Rouen, an RCMP specialist, showed Miller having .12 units per thousand alcohol in the blood. An alcohol count of .15 is considered sufficient for impairment.

UNINVITED

The accused stated that Miller came, uninvited, to Lehoux's shack, "half drunk," and began to accuse him.

The statements were compiled shortly after Lehoux gave himself up to police, after remaining in hiding for two days.

"Hey, Geez you guys, I've had nothing to eat for three days, I drink lots of water," were the first words that Lehoux said to police at the Wolf Lake cabin, as he approached them.

GIVES STORY

At first he disclaimed any knowledge of Miller, but then gave the story.

"I won't say nothing, I get in trouble," he said at the Courtenay detachment.

He then recounted a period of time that he drank about 10 beers, while Miller, who had arrived intoxicated, continued to drink, becoming abusive.

CALLED NAMES

Miller suggested that Lehoux bootleg, and called him several names, insulting under sober circumstances, he said.

Lehoux countered with accusations that Miller had been leading teen-agers into delinquency, which resulted in more abuse from the deceased.

"We argue five hours . . ." said Lehoux in his statement.

FIGHT INVITE

Lehoux admitted that Miller didn't lay a hand on him at any time.

"I don't know what I use, I just grab something and hit him.

'MAYBE FIVE'

"Maybe one, two, or maybe five times I hit him.

"I say, 'how you feel now Dusty'?"

"When I put a pillow under his head he was bleeding."

Dusty was choking on the floor at that time, according to Lehoux's statement.

"Dead or alive, I don't know," he said, referring to Miller's condition when Lehoux left.

Insurance Rates Drop Quickly

PORT ALBERNI — With the first few truckloads of earth still being moved from the site of the new fire hall at 10th and Bute, householders have already begun to enjoy the benefits of a full-time fire department in Port Alberni.

The pleasant surprise took the form of an announcement that rates for fire insurance in Port Alberni, on residential property, would drop by $1 per thousand.

★ ★ ★

Although as yet there is no drop in fire insurance costs for commercial buildings, it is hoped that with further improvement in fire protection and additional equipment as planned, a drop in these rates will follow shortly.

At present a full-time staff of eight men is housed in the old fire hall adjacent to the police station on Fifth and Argyle in downtown Port Alberni.

The new hall under construction at 10th and Bute is situated in what the fire marshal's office feels is a more central location to serve all of Port Alberni, and on what will eventually be a through road to Alberni.

The reduction in insurance rates does not apply to the city of Alberni at this time.

Help for Indians Ottawa Pledge

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Ottawa is ready and willing to help the Cowichan Indians with their housing problem.

In a letter to Abraham Joe, chairman of the band's grievance committee, Indian Affairs Minister Laing Thursday said he is prepared to recommend a capital contribution to the band to meet the immediate housing needs.

The band's grievance committee was formed at the beginning of September as Indians charged they did not get the full share of governmental housing aid.

Analysing the appalling housing conditions on the Cowichan Indian Reserve, the committee sent a brief to Mr. Laing.

In the brief the committee stated 81 new houses should be built on the reserve over a period of three years.

SUFFICIENT AMOUNT

In his letter Mr. Laing said a contribution of a sufficient amount would be spread over the next four years. He said the money would be administered by the Cowichan Band Council.

He said the housing brief by the Indians is closely related to the objective of the Indian affairs department plans.

Mr. Laing, in March this year, announced in the House of Commons a program for the total physical development of Indian reserves throughout Canada, to be carried out with the co-operation of the Indian people over the next five years.

He said one program has been developed and further programs are being considred to meet the ultimate objective.

Mr. Laing said the funds will be administered by the band council or by the housing committee approved by the council.

The understanding would be that the signing of the new houses would be in compliance with the recommendation put forth in the Cowichan planning study, prepared for the band by Vancouver planner Robert Williams in March.

Earlier this week Cowichan Indian Agent Ron Sampson said it is hoped a new housing scheme for the Cowichan Band will be in operation by beginning of next April.

THREE POINTS

The new scheme has three points: subsidy housing for those in need; rental-purchase for those who can pay rent from earnings and social allowances; and funds for second mortgages for those who qualify for regular housing loans.

A meeting in the near future between Cowichan Band and Mr. Laing is being arranged.

Nanaimo Pays Price for Progress

Things are really moving in Nanaimo. The Hub City's Commercial Street is being entrenched so underground wiring can be provided for street lights. Watermain laterals also are being replaced. Work is further restricting existing street parking but end should be worth all trouble.—(Agnes Flett)

Bid for Blood Gains Force

DUNCAN — In an all-out effort to reach the quota of 400 pints in the one-day blood clinic, Dec. 16, local Red Cross blood donor committee chairman Mrs. David W. Peachey and her assistant Mrs. Howard Graham have started to line up many volunteers.

Mrs. Peachey, housewife and mother of four children, has accepted her responsibility as blood clinic chairman for the second time. Before coming to Duncan, she was associated with Red Cross at Whitehorse where her husband was stationed.

She said, "The clinic is close to Christmas and the blood given is a gift of life, true to the meaning of this festive season.

"In one year the cost of this service alone, not including government grants, was well over $200,000."

She said the annual saving for approximately 24,000 patients in the province is about $2,760,000. Mrs. Peachey said everyone she approaches is willing to help.

She said the junior auxiliary to the King's Daughters' Hospital looks after refreshements, the Soroptimists keep the records, the Kiwanian Ambulance Society provides transportation, the Duncan United Church allows the use of its premises, pupils of the Cowichan High School help with typing, members of the Registered Nurses' Association look after the patients following the blood donation and local merchants willingly help with the displaying of posters in store windows.

Villagers Juggle Hot Potato

LAKE COWICHAN — Village council has a "hot potato" on its hands. It was juggled at this week's meeting but didn't cool off.

The story began with council asking E and N Railway to remove debris blocking proper flow of Cowichan River.

The railway company sent a representative, H. E. Hobson, to attend the last council meeting.

He quickly pointed out logs could come from other local logging companies as well as E and N.

He also said a legal representative from the railway will look into legal ownership of the islands.

INDIAN LOGS?

"If these logs were truly owned by E and N, they were also owned by the Indians," Mr. Hobson replied.

He suggested council seek remuneration from the Indians as they were original owners of all timber in the area.

SAVING SEEN

"The brush could be cut down in half a day, and this would save many working hours in the winter," he said. But Mr. Hobson didn't think it was as simple as all that, as brush removal would allow a flow of silt into the river.

This could affect fish coming up to spawn, and a problem could arise with the fisheries department, he pointed out.

Commissioner H. C. Halliday summed it up when he referred to the situation as a "hot potato."

Imperative to Get Quarters

Youngsters 'Need Place to Go'

Duncan Mother Boosts Teen Campaign

By MARIE CADORETTE

About a week ago the club decided in favor of an all-out effort to raise $20,000. The money would be used to purchase two-thirds of an acre of land plus minor renovations to an already-existing building.

Three other groups, the drama and musical clubs and the old-age pensioners would have the use of the recreation hall.

"I am all for it," says Mrs. Arne Falconberg, a mother of a Teen Towner. "I feel this is something we need very badly.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Falconberg has worked with young people for several years. She said many parents are falling behind in their responsibility.

"A lot of parents are concerned but they don't want to do anything concrete," said Mrs. Falconberg.

Teen Town has been in operation for two years. There are about 400 members. Duncan elementary school gym has been donated for their use. The club has sponsored many dances and some sports nights but it is felt this is not enough.

★ ★ ★

"They have got to have more than just straight dancing," said Mrs. Falconberg. "There is nothing for kids to do. They have to go to Victoria."

Attendance at dances has been falling rapidly. A place must be found for hobby crafts and sports nights.

North Cowichan Municipality had purchased this land. It was solely to give Teen Town an incentive," said Coun. Johnny Cannon. "If they have found a better place, more power to them."

The four clubs decided to forego this land in favor of the Frozen Food market lot. A representative of the old-age pensioners said most of them were in favor of the new location. Mrs. C. H. Marshall said the land donated by the municipality was too far out of town. "We have to have a central place," she said.

Mrs. Falconberg stated regardless which way a recreation hall was obtained, something was needed now.

"There are only a few months left before we will lose our teen-agers," she said. She felt it was too late for those in Grades 11 and 12.

"The younger ones have to be reached now."

Adult adviser to Teen Town Jim Quaife said they needed something to do and must have a place to go.

★ ★ ★

He said they were at a stage where they are more interested in hobby crafts than anything else.

"If we can catch them at an early age it gives them a chance to develop their skills."

Mrs. Falconberg said teens were not given a chance to share or improve themselves. She felt the city had more to offer her generation of teens than it has to offer the current teeners.

"We are not offering these kids anything," she said, adding that the general public would have to wake up to the fact.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the city supported the principle of a recreation hall but could not promise financial assistance at this time.

"I would say Teen Town is doing an excellent job and should be encouraged."

The mayor stated the purchase of the Frozen Food market was "a very practical suggestion."

He said the property could easily be sold or the building enlarged if ever the need arose.

Fund-raising has not officially got underway but Teen Town's adult adviser is not disturbed.

"I just believe people in this area will get behind the club," said Mr. Quaife.

Teachers, Trustees Argue

Education Pot Boiling

COURTENAY — The education pot in School District 71 continues to bubble merrily as teachers and trustees toss a shower of words at each other and rural ratepayers suddenly take a keen interest in their annual meetings.

The main ingredient for the wordy battle between teaching staff and trustees began when a letter in a local paper suggested it was time to stop playing cloak-and-dagger over teacher salary requests.

Teachers followed this with a letter outlining their proposals to the board, which they said had not been answered.

★ ★ ★

The trustees in return issued a statement in which they said they would have been derelict in their duty to the public had they even considered the pay requests.

The latest addition to the stew is a reply from teachers taking issue with several of the points raised in the school board release.

Two other incidents this week have added a little spice to the situation.

Trustee Betty Moore, representative on the board for Courtenay rural, was not re-elected when rural ratepayers met for their annual meeting this week.

In Comox more than 50 turned out for a rural representatives meeting. Last year the meeting was cancelled when one teacher and board representatives were the only ones to appear. No appointment was made to provide representation for the rural area and at the time one trustee remarked, "If they don't want to elect someone, they can go without."

This year they have elected Claude Shearer, Fredrick Luck and Edgar Smith.

Tsolum, about 12 miles north of Courtenay on Island Highway, is another spot where reports of discontent have been heard and a reliable source said three people were prepared to run in opposition to Len Avent.

Last week Mr. Avent said he was undecided about seeking re-election but Thursday announced he would definitely not be in the running, "for personal reasons."

Two people are known to be considering seeking the Courtenay seat vacated by Larry Hartman and one person is also taking a close look at the Cumberland seat held by Mrs. Winifred Buchanan.

Peterson Accepts Invitation

PORT ALBERNI — Education Minister Peterson will open the $500,000 E. J. Dunn junior secondary school in Port Alberni Dec. 3.

Acceptance of the invitation was formally announced by the school board and a special program is being drawn up for the ceremonies.

E. J. Webb is principal of the new school, which is drawing considerable attention from local residents and other school districts because of its unusual cluster-type plan, and attractive landscaping which gives the buildings the appearance of a handsome country club rather than the customary utilitarian look of many school buildings.

Car Collision Puts Woman In Hospital

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo woman is in good condition in hospital with leg and facial injuries, following a two-car accident Thursday.

A car driven by Eric George Williams, also of Nanaimo, was in collision with an auto driven by Earl Einarson.

RCMP are also investigating the disappearance of a 1965 model car and $150 worth of tools, stolen from Central Car Sales.

A vigilante band of Salt Spring Island sheepmen was set up late last year because for years ranchers have been missing as many as 100 animals a year from their flocks.

★ ★ ★

Rancher Bob Akerman, who had lost 100 ewes in one swoop, reported Thursday, "We got a tip Sunday that a boat was off the shore of my place and got over there just as fast as we could.

★ ★ ★

"We were just in time. We rushed down the hill in the fog to see a boat pulling out."

Mr. Akerman and his son Ted pursued the boat into Cowichan Bay, but lost it. They said they later found a boat tied up.

Port Alberni Commences China Creek Park Work

PORT ALBERNI — With completion of a major dredging job at Port Alberni's government assembly wharf, the dredging equipment has been moved down the canal to begin work dredging the mouth of China Creek in the park area now under construction there.

Harbor Commission chairman Denis O'Brien reported the job has already begun, and some 15,000 yards of fine gravel are to be removed to make room for a boat-launching ramp. The gravel will be piled nearby, and will mostly be used for levelling and road use in the park, it is anticipated.

Although the parksite is still under construction, dozens of visitors, sportsmen and picknickers found their way there during the summer months. However, several small washouts on the access road to the park now are reported, and the public should not use the road unnecessarily.

Much of the damage appears to be in areas where the road curves high above the ravines and creek beds of the park, and it is anticipated heavy rains could increase the hazard.

Condition of the road has been reported to the parks department in Victoria, it is stated, and motorists should refrain from using it until the necessary repairs have been made.

Well-Trained Drivers Aim of Student Course

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—A young generation of properly-trained drivers will considerably reduce the fatality rate on our highways, says Sam Keeble of Duncan.

He's the man who convinced Cowichan School Board that training of young drivers at schools is essential.

"We can't do anything about older drivers and the best thing is to get those who have not yet driven," he explained.

FILMS INCLUDED

The company supplies all classroom material, including films, and encourages its dealers to promote the safety angle at school.

He said there are 20 hours of classroom instruction and graduates, if 16 or older, may apply for driving instruction behind the wheel.

The students learn all fundamentals about cars and in many cases "they probably will know more about cars and proper driving than their parents."

He said the young drivers learn that to have a driver's licence is a privilege and not a right.

Recently 32 students, girls and boys, graduated in theory and 14 of them will take the practical driver's training.

Mr. Keeble said in the near future other classes will start at Quamichan junior and Cowichan high school.

REDUCTION IN COST

Graduating students will receive a 10 per cent reduction on insurance.

Mr. Keeble said another feature of the course is the influence trained pupils could have when they are riding as passengers in other cars.

DRIVING LESSONS

The driving lessons are supplied by Duncan Driving School and each pupil pays $30 which includes the cost of the learner's and the driver's licence.

Quamichan Junior High Principal Doug Greenwood said the films supplies for the course are "very good."

SCOPE THERE

He said, "There is a lot of scope for the students.

"The theory is very helpful and the students are very interested.

Mr. Greenwood said his own son would be ready to drive soon.

He said, "The number of accidents on the highways worries parents and it makes one wonder as a parent if you are doing the right thing to let your children drive."

DIFFERENT LOOK

He said the new driver's training course throws a different perspective on this problem.

Monday afternoon the first students in the Cowichan School District began with their practical instruction and Mr. Keeble said, "I wish all school districts would make this driver's training course available to their students."

Civil Defence Link

Fire Plan Favored

LAKE COWICHAN — Council is in favor of the village fire department joining a federal-provincial emergency scheme. It has been in operation in other areas of Canada since 1963.

Fire Chief R. E. Weismiller said Lake Cowichan could join without requesting financial assistance.

He said if the village wanted assistance, two things would have to be agreed upon — 37 men would have to be trained in the operation of pumps and the department would have to be ready to assist in an emergency.

Commissioner H. C. Halliday pointed out the government would pay 45 per cent of the cost for new equipment and 75 per cent if the equipment would be used for civil defence.

"No doubt the civil defence has control of all funds," he remarked.

★ ★ ★

"It seems to me we're just joining civil defence," offered Chairman Mrs. Childe.

She said she was not against helping people but liked to call a spade a spade.

After viewing the park with Kinsmen, Mr. Halliday recommended council "stick to the plans as near as possible."

Earlier there had been doubts about the plan's feasibility because of costs.

NANAIMO — The half-way mark has been reached in the 1966-67 Nanaimo and District Open Chess Championship in both major and minor classes.

After four rounds of play in the major tables, Dave Shiu is the leader, a point ahead of Fred Schulz, Dr. M. Wynrib and Bill Parker are tied for third spot.

In the minor tournament, Jim Ball has a two-point lead over Tom Withlam, with Fred Jepson and Don Seriani tied for third spot.

Results follow, with the winner getting one point, the loser none and the draw resulting in a ½-½ split. The first-mentioned player had white pieces.

Approval Asked For $1,820,500

COURTENAY — Voters in school district 71 will be asked to approve a referendum for $1,820,500 when they go to the poll next month.

School board has given final approval to the referendum and has forwarded it to Victoria for approval.

Secretary-Treasurer C. N. Peterson said the referendum would likely be placed before the public on Dec. 10, the same day as minicipal elections.

The referendum has four main categories: sites, for which $150,350 is allotted; buildings, 1,363,300; equipment, $156,900; and plans, supervision and contingencies, $149,950.

In the section set aside for sites money for two new areas for a Comox North and a Courtenay South elementary school is set aside as well as money for grounds improvement in existing sites.

Buildings inclued schools of Comox North and Courtenay South, and one in the Merville area. Also included is money for deficiencies at new senior high-vocational school, brought about when costs had to be pared down. This school would receive additional classrooms.
